MRS. J. R. BARRETT DEAD

THE END CAME AT 1:10 O'CLOCK P. M. SUNDAY, OF HEART TROUBLE.

WAS DOWN TOWN SATURDAY NIGHT

Had Resided in Sedalia Thirty Years, and Was Prominent in Church and Social Circles—The Funeral Tomorrow.

Mrs. Matilda Barrett, better-known to her intimate friends as Mrs. "Tippie" Neil Barrett, widow of Mr. J. R. Barrett, died suddenly of heart trouble at her apartments at the John L. Hall residence, 423 West Broadway, at 1:10 o'clock Sunday afternoon, aged 63 years.

The news of her demise came as a severe shock to a legion of friends, only a few of whom were aware that she was afflicted with heart ailment, which had caused her to remark on numerous occasions to her closest acquaintances that she never retired at night without arranging all of her affairs, as she did not know what minute she might be stricken.

Saturday night Mrs. Barrett, in her usual happy frame of mind, was down town shopping, and made no complaint of being ill. She returned home early, and, on retiring, soon fell asleep. She slept until 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning, when she awoke with a severe pain in the region of her heart.

She called her grandson, Barrett Emmert, a High school student, from an adjoining room, and the latter summoned Mesdames J. L. Hall and H. J. Smith, who did all possible for the patient, but to no purpose.

A few minutes later Dr. D. T. Abell was called and administered an opiate, which brought temporary relief, but during the forenoon Mrs. Barrett's condition became more serious, and at the hour stated she passed peacefully away, without having regained consciousness.

No lady in Sedalia was better known or was held in higher esteem than Mrs. "Tippie" Barrett. She was a member of Calvary Episcopal church, the Women's Guild of the church, the Sorosis club and the Rocking Chair club, and was prominent in church and club work. No more charming hostess ever dwelt in Sedalia, and during the life of Mr. Barrett the famous old Barrett home was the scene of many delightful functions.

Not only was Mrs. Barrett all that is enumerated above, but her deeds of charity, always without ostentation, were many, and in households without number where she had assisted in distress the news of her unexpected demise will be received with deepest sorrow.

Mrs. Barrett was a daughter of Stephen T. Neil, a prominent citizen of Lafayette county, who resided near Higginsville and who died some years ago. She was twice married, the name of her first husband being McClaughrey.

On November 28, 1877, Mrs. McClaughrey was united in wedlock to Mr. Barrett, a widower with two sons, Richard B. and Jonathan F., who are still living, and one daughter, Anna, who died in 1892. No children were born of Mr. Barrett's second marriage.

In the prime of beautiful young womanhood Miss Anna became the bride of Charles E. Emmert, but died in childbirth, leaving the baby boy, Barrett, to the father and grandparents to rear.

Business required that Mr. Emmert, the father, reside elsewhere, and the infant son was given into the keeping of his grandparents. Mr. Barrett died August 10, 1894, and since then Mrs. Barrett had had the rearing of her grandson in charge, doing her part truly well—in fact, no mother could have done more for a child. It is not strange that all who knew Mrs. Barrett are bowed in sorrow at her demise.

The funeral services will be held at Calvary church at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the rector, Rev. Douglass Atwill, officiating.

The music will be in charge of Miss Agnes Scott Longan, who will sing, "Face to Face." A quartette consisting of Miss Longan and Mesdames C. H. Bard, J. H. Rodes and Lillie MacGugin will sing, "Lead, Kindly Light," and the vested choir of the church will sing, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

The following friends of the family will serve as pallbearers: Grant Crawford, J. D. Donnohue, C. C. Evans, W. B. Shirk, Ernest W. Lamy and W. M. Johns.

Not Until December.

Manager Olendorf has found it impossible to play Joe Howard and Mabel Barrison for a return engagement at the new Sedalia theater on Oct. 7, on account of previous bookings, but feels sure that he will be able to get them here again some time in December.

American Rider Injured.

THE DEMI MONDE QUEEN

LIAISON WITH HER CHARGED TO HORNER BY HIS WIFE IN ATLANTA.

THE DAUGHTER OF A MILLIONAIRE

Suit Is Filed by Mrs. Horner for Divorce, and Horner Sues Her Father for Damages of $100,000.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 30.—Mrs. T. Mitchell Horner, also known as Mrs. Jack Horner, one of the most noted women in Atlanta and Baltimore society, has entered suit here for absolute divorce.

The single allegation on which the suit is based is infidelity on the part of Horner. Mr. and Mrs. Horner were married in Baltimore in 1896 and soon after moved to Atlanta.

Mrs. Horner alleges that her husband has spent a large part of his time with Marie Law and other women, adding that the defendant gave money to Marie Law besides paying her bills.

Marie Law is known as the "Queen of the Demi Monde" in Atlanta. No alimony is asked, as Mrs. Horner has all the property. Her wealth is estimated at over $400,000.

Mrs. Horner is a daughter of Captain and Mrs. Isaac Emerson, of Baltimore. Emerson is rated as a multimillionaire, having grown rich from the sale of a seltzer. Horner's family stands well in Baltimore. He is a graduate of Harvard.

Mrs. Horner left her husband May 14. Three weeks ago Horner entered suit in Baltimore against his wife's parents for $100,000, alleging that they had alienated her affections.

BURIAL OF MR. CURRAN

Funeral Services at Sacred Church This Forenoon.

The funeral of Patrick Curran was held this forenoon from Sacred Heart church, many sorrowing friends being present to pay the last tribute to the beloved dead.

The members of Branch No. 157, Catholic Knights and Ladies of America, of which Mr. Curran had been a member for four years, were present in a body, as were also the members of the Altar society, of which Mrs. Curran has been president for several years past.

The Rev. Fr. S. Neiberg, pastor of the church, conducted the services, with requiem mass, and was assisted by the Rev. Fr. Christian Daniel as deacon, and the Rev. Fr. Rudolph Stoltz as sub-deacon. The regular choir furnished the music.

Fr. Neiberg's reference to Mr. Curran as a devout Catholic, model husband and good citizen met with a hearty response at the hands of his auditors, nearly all of whom had known him intimately, and many eyes were dimmed with tears during the most pathetic portions of his utterances.

At the conclusion of the services the casket, which was covered with beautiful floral offerings, among them special pieces from the Hibernians and Barkeepers' union, was removed from the church to the hearse in waiting and conveyed to the Catholic cemetery, where the interment took place, after the usual brief services at the grave, conducted by Fr. Daniel. The gentlemen named in the Democrat-Sentinel of Sunday served as pallbearers.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

CONFERRED THREE DEGREES ON A LARGE CLASS SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

WORK CONTINUED INTO THE NIGHT

At the Conclusion of the Ceremonies a Magnificent Banquet Was Served in the Royal Tribe of Joseph Hall.

Over two hundred members of the order of Knights of Columbus witnessed the conferring of the first, second and third degrees of the order on a class of almost fifty candidates at the hall over the Democrat-Sentinel office Sunday afternoon and evening.

The Sedalia team conferred the first degree, the Marshall team the second degree and the St. Louis team the third degree.

The hall was very appropriately decorated for the occasion, and tables, spread with various substantials and delicacies, set the entire length of the commodious hall, provided room for three hundred guests.

The members of the order were first served at supper, being followed by out-of-town ladies and wives and sweethearts of the local members.

The program was a very select one, but owing to the absence of several persons who were to take part, some of the numbers were omitted. The program as carried out follows:

MARRIED ON THE SABBATH

Mr. J. G. Heydingsfelder and Miss Susie Hudson.

J. G. Heydingsfalder, a painter and paperhanger of this city, and Miss Susie Hudson, a popular young lady, also of this city, were quietly married at the home of the bride's mother, 510 North Grand avenue, by Rev. J. F. Caskey, pastor of the Fifth street M. E. church, South, at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Outside of immediate families, the only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Lingle, of Clinton, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hastie, of Green Ridge. After the wedding a sumptious dinner was served at the home, the bridegroom's mother and sister, Miss Maggie, being present.

To the popular young couple the Democrat-Sentinel extends its congratulations.

The revival meeting conducted by the Church of Christ at the corner of Twelfth and Thompson streets did not close last night, as was expected, because of the great interest being shown. There will be preaching tonight and baptising at the close of the services. All are welcome.

John L. Buckley left Sunday afternoon for a two days' sojourn in Kansas City, where he will consult his former physician regarding the best point in the west or southwest at which to spend the winter, in the hope of recuperating his health, which has prevented his attending to business for several months past.

Mr. Buckley's preference is San Antonio, Texas, but he will be guided largely by the advice of the physician who treated him while he was a patient at St. Margaret's hospital in Kansas City, Kas., the past summer.

No resident of Sedalia has a larger circle of friends than "Johnnie" Buckley, and one and all will join the Democrat-Sentinel is the wish that he may return in the spring with his health perfectly restored.

"LID" SLIPPED SUNDAY

NOT MUCH TROUBLE TO GET THE "REAL STUFF" IN KANSAS CITY, MO.

ARRESTS MADE AT THREE PLACES

At John Boyle's Saloon Five Men Apprehended in the Act of Guzling Beer—Arrests at Rooming Houses.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 30.—Patrolmen Clark and Downey found five men drinking beer in a back room of John Boyle's saloon, 1231 West Ninth street, yesterday afternoon. Thomas Kenney, Boyle's bartender, was found in the place and was taken to No. 2 police station. He was charged with violating the Sunday closing law. He gave bond of $51 and was released.

Jennie Van Allen's rooming house, 213 West Third street, was visited by Sergeant Robert Smith and Patrolmen John Crane and John Withrow, who suspected that beer was being sold there early yesterday morning. They arrested Mrs. Van Allen on a charge of sellin liquor without a license. Four cases of beer were seized and taken to police headquarters. The woman gave bond for her appearance in police court.

The rooming house of Mrs. Odie Lewis, 108 West Fifth street, was raided yesterday afternoon by Sergeant H. D. Morrison and Patrolmen Sanderson and Julian. Mrs. Lewis, three other women and a man were arrested on a charge of selling liquor without a license. Eleven cases of beer were found and will be used as evidence. THE AUTOMOBILE RACES

Official Sanction of American Association Obtained.

Dr. A. H. Heaton, president of the Sedalia Automobile club, and whom the fair board placed in charge of the arrangements for the $1,000 ten-mile automobile race to be run at the Missouri state fair on "Sedalia day," Tuesday, October 8, is just in receipt of notice from Secretary Elliott, of the American Automobile association, that official sanction has been given for the state fair race and a charter issued for the Sedalia Automobile club, recently organized.

Under the rules of the American association its members are prohibited from participating in races not officially sanctioned by said association, hence this recognition will clear the way for the entry of the leading autoists of the state.

STRUCK ON FACE

E. L. Atchison Had Narrow Escape at Missouri Pacific Shops Sunday.

E. L. Atchison, a Missouri Pacific machinist's helper, was painfully injured at the shops Sunday morning by being struck on the left cheek a hard blow from a sledge hammer. Atchison was working with a machinist, holding a chisel, which the machinist was striking with the hammer. A blow glanced and struck Atchison on the cheek, painfully injuring him. He was removed to the Katy hospital, where the wound was dressed.

MEMORIAL IS DEDICATED

MAGNIFICENT MAUSALEUM TO PRESIDENT McKINLEY NOW A PUBLIC POSSESSION.

THOUSANDS WITNESSED THE EVENT

Dead President's Successor Delivers Eloquent Oration Lauding the Life and Character of the Martyred Executive.

Canton, Ohio, Sept. 30.—The weather conditions here were favorable for a successful day for the dedication of the McKinley memorial. Thousands of persons poured into the city yesterday and early today to witness the ceremonies, and the city is literally filled.

President Roosevelt and party arrived shortly before noon, and the president was greeted with cheers.

Judge William R. Day was on the program for the first speech and he was followed by the president.

The President's Address.

We have gathered together today to pay our meed of respect and affection to the memory of William McKinley, who as president won a place in the hearts of the American people such as but three or four of all the presidents of this country have ever won. He was of singular uprightness and purity of character, alike in the public and private life; a citizen who loved peace, he did his duty faithfully and well for four years of war when the honor of the nation called him to arms.

As congressman, as governor of his state, and finally as president, he rose to the foremost place among our statesmen, reaching a position which would satisfy the keenest ambition; but he never lost that simple and thoughtful kindness toward every human being, great or small, lofty or humble, with whom he was brought in contact, which so endeared him to our people.

He had to grapple with more serious and complex problems than any president since Lincoln, and yet, while meeting every demand of statesmanship, he continued to live a beautiful and touching family life, a life very healthy for this nation to see in its foremost citizen; and now the woman who walked in the shadow ever after his death, the wife to whom his loss was a calamity more crushing than it could be to any other human being, lies beside him here in the same sepulcher.

An Appropriate Inscription.

There is a singular appropriateness in the inscription on his monument. Mr. Cortelyou, whose relations with him were of such close intimacy, gives me the following information about it: On the president's trip to the Pacific slope, in the spring of 1901, President Wheeler, of the University of California, conferred the degree of LL D. upon him in words so well chosen that they struck the fastidious taste of John Hay, then secretary of state, who wrote and asked for a copy of them from President Wheeler. On the receipt of this copy he sent the following letter to President McKinley, a letter which now seems filled with a strange and unconscious prescience:

"Dear Mr. President: President Wheeler sent me the inclosed at my request. You will have the words in more permanent shape. They seem to me remarkably well chosen, and stately and dignified enough to serve—long hence, please God—as your epitaph. Yours faithfully—John Hay."

"University of California, Office of the President. By authority vested in me by the regents of the University of California, I confer the degree of Doctor of Laws upon William McKinley, president of the United States, a statesman singularly gifted to unite the discordant forces of the government and mold the diverse purposes of men toward progressive and salutary action, a magistrate whose poise of judgment has been tested and vindicated in a sucession of national emergencies; good citizen, brave soldier, wise executive, helper and leader of men, exemplar to his people of the virtues that build and conserve the state, society, and the home.

"Berkeley, May 15, 1901."

Possessed of Rare Gift.

It would be hard to imagine an epitaph which a good citizen would be more anxious to deserve or one which would more hastily describe the qualities of that great and good citizen whose life we here commemorate. He possessed to a very extraordinary degree the gift of uniting discordant forces and securing from them harmonious action which told for good government.

From purposes not merely diverse, but bitterly conflicting, he was able to secure healthful action for the good of the state. In both poise and judgment he rose level to the several emergencies he had to meet as leader of then nation, and like all men with the root of true greatness in them he grew to steadily larger stature under the stress of heavy responsibilities. He was a good citizen and a brave soldier, a chief executive whose wisdom entitled him to the trust which he received throughout the nation.

He was not only a leader of men, but preeminently a helper of men;

TWO WRECKS ON FRISCO

ENGINE OF METEOR JUMPED TRACK WHILE ON DOWN GRADE AT DIXON.

ENGINEER AND MAIL CLERK KILLED

At Anaconda Passenger Run Into a Freight Train and Badly Injured Two Mail Clerks—None of Passengers Seriously Hurt

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—The fast train on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad known as the Meteor, due in St. Louis at 11:30 a. m., was derailed and the cars burned on Dixon Hill, near Dixon, Mo., at 7 o'clock this morning.

According to official advices received at the general offices here, two persons were killed, one seriously injured and many passengers badly bruised, but none killed.

The dead are Engineer Chambers, of Springfield, Mo., and Mail Clerk Frank F. Crissy, of St. Louis, and the seriously injured is Fireman Stockstill of Springfield.

The engine and forward part of the train overturned, the cars taking fire and being entirely consumed. A special train bearing physicians, nurses and fire fighting apparatus was sent from Rolla.

Dixon Hill is a steep grade, sixteen miles in length, and the engine jumped the track while speeding down this grade, tearing up a section of the track and ditching several cars.

Head-End Collision Also.

Anaconda, Mo., Sept 30.—Two mail clerks were injured, two locomotives demolished and a number of head of cattle killed in a head-end collision late last night near here between a southbound passenger train and a freight on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad.

Mail Clerks C. E. Harrel and H. J. Chamberlain, both of St. Louis, were injured, but will recover.

Beyond a severe shaking up, none of the passengers was hurt.

The freight was attempting to make a siding at Anaconda on short time, when the passenger dashed around the curve at full speed, striking the freight.

ATTORNEYS GENERAL MEETING

Twenty-Two Legal Advisers of States Gather in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—The convention of attorneys general, which was called August 12 by a committee of which Attorney General Hadley, of Missouri, was the chairman, convened here today with attorneys general and assistant attorneys general present from twenty-two states.

The purpose is for a general discussion of the anti-trust laws, railroad rate regulation and state rights, and it is deemed probable that a permanent organization will be effected.

Bride and Groom Were Here.

C. A. Donnohue, a contractor and carpenter from Billings, Mont., and bride, formerly Miss Mabel Maddox, of Pilot Grove, who were married at the bride's home at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, were in the city today, visiting friends, on their way to Billings to reside.

Miss Bohon Resigns.

Miss Mollie Bohon, a chief operator for the Bell Telephone Co., has resigned. Miss Mabel Henderson succeeds her.

"KISSING CASE" SEQUEL

JUSTICE A. D. McCORKLE GIVES HIS VERSION OF A RECENT HEARING.

SEVERAL "STATEMENTS" DENIED

The Case of Orville Cornine, Who Was Charged With an Assault on William M. Dial, of the "Lost Corner."

Justice A. D. McCorkle, before whom Orville Cornine was recently arraigned in the "Lost Corner," charged with an assault on William M. Dial, growing out of the latter's kissing Cornine's sweetheart at a social at the Cornine home, requests the publication of the following in the Democrat-Sentinel in explanation of why Cornine was not held for the criminal court:

Nelson, Mo., Sept. 28, 1907. Sedalia Democrat-Sentinel: Some one has favored me with marked copies of the above styled paper and Sedalia Daily Capital, dated Sept. 20, 1907.

The marked articles refer to a case recently brought before this court, and, respectively under the headings as follows: "Proceeding Was Queer," pape 6, and "Didn't Hold Cornine," page 3. Evidently, both articles were elaborated by the same party; or, at all events, by persons of similar mental animus.

These articles, unanswered, would create a very decided impression against me, who is the "Justice McCorkle" mentioned.

The public would not be unreasonable in deciding against me if I failed to say something in reply.

Hence, first I shall mention the untruths presenetd without particular reference to which article contained them.

(a) The "justice" did not enclose with his letter an information charging Orville Cornine with assault with intent to kill, but the affidavit of William M. Dial, charging simply assault and battery.

Before the day set for the hearing, and, in fact, before any paper was filed in this court, said William M. Dial and son visited the prosecuting attorney and a new affidavit, charging felonious assault with intent to kill, was forwarded in place of the first affidavit mentioned. The "evidence showing severe wound with metal knuckles" was a very cloudy showing, indeed.

In that "quite a speech, not understood by the state's representatives," a resume of the testimony was made, and the reasons plainly pointed out why I could not consider the probability of the use of metal knuckles established, and the possibilities thereof rather slim.

The court admits denouncing the occurrence as "very reprehensible," but the superlatives — the most outrageous, worst, etc., are reserved for some other of the five cases on docket at this time from this "Lost Corner."

(b) As to the statement that the defendant, his sweetheart and parents dined at the judge's home "prior to the opening of the case," I have this to say: If the writer of these articles or their informant attempted to say that they dined there on the day of the trial, they are once more mistaken, and said what is and was untrue.

The father of the defendant was invited to dinner, because the "justice" was informed that he, being sick, had taken little food that day, and knowing his entire life to have been honorable and blameless, there could be no reason for suddenly refusing, under the distressing circumstances of his presence, the humanity and courtesy of offering needed food to a sick neighbor. But, as said, he declined and did not eat, even after being persuaded to take a seat at the table. And there were eight persons sitting at the table and certainly witnessed Mr. Cornine's withdrawal from the table, among whom were the state's attorney.

Now, I do hope that this shall suffice to prevent belief in the wholesale misrepresentation of these articles, and "Justice McCorkle" will endeavor to suppress the little suspicion arising in his mind, like a cloud of smoke, that an effort is made to give him a little cold or hot Steel(e) and make him appear in the public eye as being very Dow(dy). Respectfully, A. R. McCORKLE.

ADVERTISING THAT COUNTS.

Advertising is a fine art and it should be classed as such. Merchants, manufacturers and other men whose business profits depend largely upon the amount of printers' ink they use are rapidly coming to see that a large amount of the money they expend in so-called advertising is absolutely thrown away.

It is not strange, therefore, that the merchants' associations of many of the large cities of the country are deciding to limit their advertising to the newspapers.

They are declaring that programs, business directories, circulars, prospectuses, handbills, pamphlets, posters and other devices designed to separate the advertiser from his cash are stale, flat and unprofitable, and therefore a weariness to the bank account. All of which shows that the legitimate advertiser is at last coming to his senses.

The newspaper is the best possible advertising medium in so many respects that it would be impossible to enumerate them, while the evanescent circular and the flatulant handbill smacks too strongly of the cheap john methods to interest men and women who read the newspapers, including the advertisements.

The time is coming when business men engaged in legitimate pursuits will never think of advertising in anything else than a newspaper. Business men who have level heads and understand how to attract trade have already adopted that rule.

THE COST OF LIVING.

Do you know how much more on the average it costs you to live than it did in 1896? Bradstreet's commercial agency, which keeps account of the ups and downs of the prices of commodities, has answered the question in the last issue of their journal, which says:

"Compared with the low level set July 1, 1896, the gain is 54.8 per cent." So if it cost you $100 a month to live then it costs you $154 now. The protected trusts are the chief cause of high prices, and there seems to be a determination by the dominant political party to refuse to revise the tariff which protects the trusts and prevents competition. If the republican party wins in the coming national election the leaders will declare that it is an endorsement of the tariff policy of protecting the trusts, and there can be but little relief from trust high prices as long as the tariff protects them.

As large profits have induced the trusts to manufacture more than the people can consume, the surplus is sold abroad at bargain prices. Why should not the American people participate in these bargains the trusts sell to foreigners?

MONEY TO BURN.

Year after year men rock the boat and fire the gun that they didn't know was loaded, and the treasury officials tell us that there is an unending succession of men who do not trust the banks, and, therefore, put their money in the stove in summer and forget it in the fall when they have to start fires. Burnt bills come to the treasury in Washington for redemption, and the officials of the treasury in Washington can keep track of the progress of frost, beginning in Maine early in September and gradually moving south.

The other day burnt money came from Greene county, Indiana, indicating cold weather unusually early in the season. Next month charred notes in great quantities will come in from many points.

A FILIPINO PUZZLE.

Forty congressmen, representing both parties, have gone on record in the New York Herald as favoring a sale of the Philippine islands; forty-one others want to try the experiment of long range government still further, but have doubts about the outcome; ten others would be willing to turn the islands over to the natives at once. All of which shows that opinion is somewhat mixed.

That the Philippines are a burden and will remain so indefinitely is established in the minds of a large majority of the American people.

In Africa the republican party must be pretty firmly established, for the tuft of an elephant's tail is a badge of honor borne aloft by the herald who predicts a king. Secretary William Loeb has received from our minister resident in Liberia one of these tufts, and he is now in a position to march in advance of our president, bearing aloft the tuft of the tail of that animal which Tom Nast a generation ago made the emblem of the republican party, perhaps because it is voracious.

There is a belief among many of the residents of Maryland that that state will furnish one or the other end of the democratic presidential ticket next year, and thus raise the barrier which ever since Appomattox has barred out southern men from any of the prizes of the national convention.

Louis Stuyvesant Chanler, lieutenant governor of New York, mentioned as a possible candidate for the democratic nomination for president, has been invited to deliver an address at the coming Georgia state fair on the political issues of the day.

DOG FIRES SHOT INTO MAN

Leaps Against Gun, Disabling Engineer for Life.

Eldon, Mo., Sept. 30.—George E. Smith, an engineer on the Rock Island railroad, while hunting near Eldon, was shot by his dog, which leaped against the trigger of his gun, discharging it.

The shot tore a large hole in Mr. Smith's wrist and even though the hand may not be amputated, it is probable that the member will be useless for life, and the engineer deprived of his occupation.

Mr. Smith was leaning on the muzzle of the gun when the dog barked in play and leaped to place its paws against his chest. The animal let its feet slowly slide down the barrel until one paw touched the trigger.

TOLD JURY TOO BIG A TALE

Macon County Thief Too Eager to Aid Confederate.

Macon, Mo., Sept. 30.—A touching case of devotion was spread out before a jury in the circuit court Saturday. J. E. Stevens and Will H. Collins, a pair of rough and ready chaps, were in jail for burgiarizing Patterson's general merchandise store at Elmer, Macon county. They took all the clothes they could carry and were apprehended with the goods on them.

Collins pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. His pal, Stevens, claimed to be an injured innocent, and that he could prove it by Collins. Then Collins went on the stand and swore that he broke into the store, helped himself to a load of shoes, coats and things, and started up the track with them.

He found Stevens lying by the roadside, and, fearing he would catch cold, put on him from the plunder a pair of pants, shoes and a nice warm coat, without Stevens waking up to learn who his good angel was. Collins never batted an eyelash while telling his remarkable tale, and neither did the jury when they heard it.

They found Stevens guilty, but complimented Collins for his romantic vision. He had done what he could.

PROMOTER ARRESTED

Charges Major Wilson With Faisely Obtaining Money.

Joplin, Mo., Sept. 30.—Major C. M. Wilson, a well known operator, who for sixteen years has been forming mining enterprises in the Missouri-Kansas lead and zinc district, was arrested yesterday on a charge of having obtained money under false pretenses. The arrest was made by Detective Garber, of Indianapolis, who represents that parties of that city have lost $17,500.

The officer came provided with requisition papers and left last night for Indianapolis with his prisoner. The arrest was made on complaint of A. J. O'Reilly, general agent of the Monon railroad.

GOT VERDICT OF $25,000

BECAUSE A KENTUCKIAN HAD ALIENATED HIS WIFE'S AFFECTIONS.

SPICY MISSIVES READ IN COURT

Get Rid of Your Husband by Dope or Pistol Was the Advice of W. L. Grady to Clarence L. Thomas' Wife.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 30.—A verdict for $25,000 damages was given Saturday to Clarence L. Thomas, the Cincinnati accountant, against W. L. Graddy, the Woodford county farmer, for alieniating the affections of Mrs. Ada Thomas, the wife of Clarence Thomas.

The verdict was for the full amount sued for, and was a surprise to everybody, for while many people thought Thomas should have a verdict, others thought the keeping of all of Graddy's letters and Thompson's visits to his wife after they had separated, showed a conspiracy to get Graddy in the toils and bleed him.

Judge Cochran, in his instructions to the jury, said the case was a one-sided one, as the evidence favored Thomas beyond a doubt, and the only question for the jury to pass upon was the amount of damages.

When court began in the morning more letters which Graddy had written to Mrs. Thomas, in his mad infatuation, were read to the jury. On July 26, 1905, Graddy was insistent, with the suggestion that Mrs. Thomas manage some way to put "Old T." out of the way that she might get his $10,000 life insurance, saying:

"We can get off then and have a good time to ourselves as long as it lasts."

He suggests using "drops like you got in Lexington," or that she "accidentally" do it with her little gun.

On January 15, 1906, Graddy had threatened to "dress up in my gold cuff buttons and my gun and come down and get drunk and raise h—l with the man who is trying to cut me out."

In the same letter Graddy tells of winning a case in court. "I won my case in court and if I get anything after paying the lawyers you shall have it."

In a letter written February 3, 1907, upon which special stress was laid by the plaintiff's attorneys, Graddy said:

"But if you do put up for it make him put up for it all the time. Suppose you go up and see him and get a policy on his life and then get rid of him? It would be so easy and then we could go off and have such a nice time together as long as it lasts. You could accidentally shoot him with the gun, but I had rather you would do something else. Think of it—we could have a nice little fortune some day if we could get rid of him."

Again he said: "Your mother will not live all the time. She is a good mother or she would not have me do as I do. She knows, however, that you have to have somebody to love. She knows that I have two wives and that I love you always and alone. You said that she did not like me, but I know she does, for she smiled when she came in and saw me hugging you up. God knows I wish I had you here to hug you up now."

On February 5, the same year, a letter said: "Ada, be careful with that little gun, for I saw in the paper where people shot themselves with such things sometimes. Put it in a drawer and keep it there, but if it was Old T. who got shot it wouldn't make much difference if you got the $10,000 policy."

Judge Julian asked that Attorney Harris, who represented Graddy, take the stand when he had concluded the reading of the letters. He asked Harris where Graddy is now. He said he did not know. He said he had no information as to where he went to after the publication that the suit was to be brought. In reply to the question whether or not he was in Kentucky, Harris answered: "Maybe he is and maybe he is not. I have no more knowledge of this matter than you have."

In answer to other questions, Mr. Harris said that Graddy had a family consisting of a wife, two daughters and a son. He was last in Woodford county between two and three weeks ago. He did not know when he arrived, but he left after an interview with him (Harris). He had no knowledge where Graddy went to. In regard to the assignment made by Graddy, Mr. Harris said that after the publication of the suit he made an assignment of his property for the purpose of protecting his legitimate creditors.

With this Judge Julian said that the plaintiff would rest, and Mr. Harris also announced that the defendant rested. Much surprise was created when the attorneys for Graddy rested his case without the introduction of any evidence after the reading of such damaging letters by the attorneys for plaintiff. It had been expected that an attempt would be made to break down the character of Mrs. Thomas by witnesses, but the attorneys for Graddy apparently relied solely upon their ability to asperse her character through the very letters upon which the defense built its case.

The jury took the case at noon and about an hour after they returned from dinner the verdict was rendered.

RATS IN COURT HOUSE

Ate the Exhibits and Spoiled Grain Dealer's Law Suit.

St. Louis, Mo., SSept. 30.—A letter received by Attorney J. M. Lasley relates that rats have wrecked the suit of his client, D. I. Bushnell, a St Louis grain dealer, against Johnson & Son, of Goshen, Ind., by stealing into the county clerk's office at Goshen and eating the several exhibits filed by Lasley.

Without the bags of seed, labeled Exhibit A, etc., the depositions are meaningless. Lasley must examine his witnesses again and record their testimony anew.

"I was so annoyed by the conditions of affairs," writes Lew Vail, a Goshen lawyer, who filed the suit for Lasley, "that I have not done anything yet in the premises. I am trying to decide whether to bring action against the rats for larceny or the court house cats for criminal negligence."

BANNER STATE FAIR SUNDAY

Religious Services Held for Throng at Springfield, Ill.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 30.—With thousands of visitors thronging the grounds and the greater number of paid admissions for Sunday in the history of the big show, yesterday proved the banner Sunday of the Illinois state fair. The gate receipts were more than $200 above those of Sunday last year, and the total number of visitors is estimated at 5,000.

Religious services conducted in the Woman's building were the feature of the day. A lecture on "The Mission of America" was delivered by the Rev. E. B. Rogers, pastor of the Central Baptist church, of this city.

Except for these services there was little about the grounds to remind the visitor that the day was Sunday. The work of completing the various exhibits was continued.

MAN WHO CAUSED WRECK

SAYS THAT HE WILL CONTINUE RAILROAD WORK AND GET TO THE FRONT.

THE RECENT M. K. & T. COLLISION

Operator Is 24 Years Old Instead of 19—What He Had to Say in Regard to His Connection With the Trouble.

The death of four men following his going to sleep while on duty as night operator at Paris, Mo., one week after being assigned the position, has not altered the determination of Clay D. Brown, 24 years old, to become what he told his friends he would some day—a train dispatcher and then a big railroad man, writes a staff correspondent of the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

While four families are still weeping over freshly-made graves and railroad men from one end to the other of the Hannibal division of the M., K. & T. are talking of how their comrades were hurled into eternity without even time to get off the engine seats, as the result of a blunder, Brown, on his brother's farm, eight miles south of Madison, Mo., is planning to get another position as operator. In fact, he says that he has not been formally "fired." This, M., K. & T. officials say, is quite superfluous.

Letting a train go by while he slept and later taking orders to arrange a meeting point for it, is what the officials charge against Brown and what Brown admits he did.

His watch was twelve hours, from 7 o'clock in the evening until 7 the next morning. He had been on duty more than nine hours when he went to sleep and the wreck occurred in the eleventh hour of his "trick"—the railroad parlance for working hours.

Hoped Luck Would Save Train.

Realizing that he had made a mistake, but trusting, he says, to luck and the alertness of the dispatcher and other operators to avert the crash, he went to his boarding house when relieved of duty and went to sleep.

He was notified by the station agent an hour later that four men had been killed and five others injured in the wreck following his nap, in the dreaded "Pickledish" series of curves two and one-half miles from Moberly.

Brown was not horror-stricken nor hysterical. He talked calmly with the agent for awhile and then he says he turned over and tried to go to sleep again.

"But sleep was gone for me then," asserts Brown, "and I tossed and rolled, wracked by what had happened."

It was not until a friend went to his bed and advised him to arise and dress and go to his home near Madison, fourteen miles away, where he was born and reared, and consult with his relatives, that Brown got up.

He then caught a freight train for Madison, where he received soothing assurances from his friends that the tragedy was one of those occurrences in railroad life that are unavoidable.

He had fears of physical harm when he was ordered to Moberly to appear before the coroner's jury, but when he went before that body he gave his testimony in a straightforward manner and his swollen eyes alone showed the fears he had experienced.

And now, less than a week later, the smile that has made two deep wrinkles on each side of his face, has come back, and he declares that he will make good his promise to friends when he was graduated from a telegraphers' school in St. Louis last June to some day reach the roll top desk goal in railroad work. And his friends believe he will.

Seasoned railroad men, who know the ways of the corporations and their memory, think differently.

I did not realize that, sitting there with my hands over my eyes suffering from headache, I had been asleep when the dispatcher called me, said Brown in his statement. Nor did I realize the flight of time. I told him that the train had not passed. Even ten minutes later, I told him I was sure it had not passed.

When I found the train had got by I prayed that someone would stop it. When I went to my boarding house, I was still hoping that there had not been a wreck, although I have since learned that the trains had met half an hour before I left the station.

It was my first week of night work and I was not accustomed to it. This was the first time, however, that I had ever gone to sleep. I slept from 9 in the morning until 3 in the afternoon the day before, but woke up with a dull headache. I do not know when I went to sleep, but it was after 4 o'clock. The dispatcher asked me if the train had passed at 5:30. This call must have awakened me.

The Missouri eight hour law, by an act of 1907, provides a fine of $1,000 for any railroad company, corporation or person who permits an operator, directing trains by telephone, telegraph or signal, or employe of the block system, to work more than eight hours a day, except where the station in which he is employed is closed at night.

In this case the operator will be permitted to work twelve hours out of the twenty-four, with an hour off for meals.

In case of a washout or other emergency the law permits the employe to work sixteen hours out of twenty-four, where the station is closed at night.

A CONDUCTOR ARRESTED

PILFERING UNION PACIFIC TRAINS BETWEEN OMAHA AND WEST.

MERCHANDISE THROWN OFF CARS

Conductor Claims It Was Done by Roadsters Who Intimidated Crew With Revolvers—Company Now Investigating

Train after train of the Union Pacific Railroad company has been looted within the last two months between Omaha and Grand Island, and special officers of the railroad company and Omaha police are on the lookout for the thieves, says the Omaha Bee.

This fact became known Tuesday evening, when Officer Shepherd, of the police department, arrested Conductor G. C. Miller, 1312 South Sixth street, whose train was pilfered Sunday evening at Millard, and several hundred dollars' worth of merchandise thrown off. The conductor is held at police headquarters for investigation.

On the way to the police station, after his arrest at Sixth and Pierce streets, Conductor Miller said to a reporter for the Bee:

"My train was frisked at Millard, but I could not do anything about it. The fellows who break open the merchandise cars and throw off goods always carry weapons and a conductor who interferes with their business gets shot full of holes. I knew they were on the train and throwing off the stuff, but all I could do was to let them alone until we arrived at Millard, when I sealed up the cars. The men were gone.

Officials of the Union Pacific declare a number of trains have been pilfered between Omaha and Grand Island, and police officers believe members of the train crews are guilty. Conductor Miller was arrested in a saloon Tuesday evening, but was not spending money freely and had but 65 cents on his person when taken to the station.

"They suspect me of stealing from the cars in my train," he said. "I have worked for the company for years and held a good position. Of course my arrest today will cause my discharge, but I would not work for the company now for any amount of money. They will have a hard time to prove that the crew of my train ever looted a car."

Holding members of a train crew as suspicious characters recalled to railroad men the daring stunts of the conductors and brakemen on the old mountain roads, when it was no unusual thing to steal several sacks of ore valued at $1,000 each. At one time the Denver and Rio Grande lost a car load of gold ore from the Little Johnson mine at Leadville, and it was learned that the train crew had skillfully changed cards from a car of low grade ore to the car of high grade and shipped it to Mexico. The result of the work resulted in private fortunes for the conductor and head brakeman. The conductor who switched the cars on the Denver and Rio Grande now lives on a big ranch in Nebraska.

A later issue of the Omaha Bee says that the way bills carried by Conductor Miller were found in the car that was looted, and a portion of the stolen goods were found in his home.

SALARIES SHOULD GO UP

The Cost of Living Has Increased Fifty Per Cent.

Bishop Cranston gave some plain talk on paying preachers higher salaries at the German Methodist conference yesterday morning, says Sunday's St. Louis Globe-Democrat. "The cost of living in the last ten years," he said, "has increased 50 per cent. How much per cent have you increased the pastors' salaries? Hasn't it increased 50 per cent, pastor?" he inquired, addressing Rev. J. F. Froeschle, the pastor of Salem church.

"Well, at least 40," answered Rev. Froeschle.

"Then you ought to increase ministers' salaries 40 per cent," the bishop continued. Pardon me if I speak plainly. Starvation doesn't beat around the bush, and old seedy clothes are plain enough spoken. I have always boasted of the liberality of our German and Scandinavian brethren. May my boast be true in this respect, also."

A NEGRO HUNT IN VIRGINIA

Looking for Assailant of a Young Man and His Sweetheart.

Washington, Sept. 30.—A posse is searching Alexandria county, Va., for a negro who waylaid and shot John William Mullen, 21 years old, yesterday near Rosslyn, opposite this city, and then attacked Miss Amelia Weiss, 17 years old, Mullen's fiancee, with whom Mullen was walking.

Without a ward of warning the negro opened fire on Mullen. A bullet went through Mullen's mouth.

for one of his most marked traits was the intense human quality of his wide and deep sympathy. Finally, he not merely preached, he was, that most valuable of all citizens in a democracy like ours, a man who in the highest place served as an unconscious example to his people of the virtues that build and conserve alike our public life, and the foundation of all public life, the intimate life of the home.

Lesson for Human Sympathy.

Many lessons are taught us by his career, but none more valuable than the lesson of broad human sympathy for and among all of our citizens of all classes and creeds. No other president has ever more deserved to have his life work characterized in Lincoln's words as being carried on "with malice toward none, with charity toward all." As a boy he worked hard with his hands; he entered the Army as a private soldier; he knew poverty; he earned his own livelihood; and by his own exertions he finally rose to the position of a man of moderate means.

Not merely was he in personal touch with farmer and town dweller, with capitalist and wageworker, but he felt an intimate understanding with each; and his consistent effort was to try to judge all by the same standard and to treat all with the same justice. Arrogance toward the weak, and envious hatred of those well off, were equally abhorrent to his just and gentle soul.

Surely this attitude of his should be the attitude of all our people today. It would be a cruel disaster to this country to permit ourselves to adopt an attitude of hatred and envy toward success worthily won, toward wealth honestly acquired. Let us in this respect profit by the example of the republics of this western hemisphere to the south of us. Some of these republics have prospered greatly; but there are certain ones that have lagged far behind, that still continue in a condition of material poverty, of social and political unrest and confusion.

Honest Industry Protected.

Without exception the republics of the former class are those in which honest industry has been assured of reward and protection; those where a cordial welcome has been extended to the kind of enterprise which benefits the whole country, while incidentally, as is right and proper, giving substantial rewards to those who manifest it. On the other hand, the poor and backward republics in which the lot o fthe average citizen is least desirable, and the lot of the laboring man worst of all, are precisely those republics in which industry has been killed because wealth exposed its owner to spoilation.

To these communities foreign capital now rarely comes, because it has been found that as soon as capital is employed so as to give substantial remuneration to those supplying it, it excites ignorant envy and hostility, which result in such oppressive action, within or without the law, as sooner or later to work a virtual confiscation. Every manifestation of feeling of this kind in our civilization should be crushed at the outset by the weight of a sensible public opinion.

From the standpoint of our material prosperity there is only one other thing as important as the discouragement of a spirit of envy and hostility toward honest business men, toward honest men of means; this is the discouragement of dishonest business men, the war upon the chicanery and wrongdoing which are peculiarly repulsive, peculiarly obnoxious, when exhibited by men who have no excuse of want, of poverty, of ignorance for their crimes.

Exists in Safety Under the Law.

Men of means, and above all men of great wealth, can exist in safety under the peaceful protection of the state, only in orderly societies, where liberty manifests itself through and under the law. It is these men who, more than others, should, in the interests of the class to which they belong, in the interests of their children and their children's children, seek in every way, but especially in the conduct of their lives, to insist upon and to build up respect for the law.

It may not be true from the standpoint of some particular individual of this class, but in the long run it is preeminently true from the standpoint of the class as a whole, no less than of the country as a whole, that it is a veritable calamity to achieve a temporary triumph by violation or evasion of the law; and we are friends of the man of property, we show ourselves the staunchest upholders of the rights of property, when we set our faces like flint against those offenders who do wrong in order to acquire great wealth or who use this wealth as a help to wrongdoing.

Wrongdoing is confined to no class. Good and evil are to be found among both rich and poor, and in drawing the line among our fellolws we must draw it on the conduct and not on worldly possessions. In the abstract most of us will admit this. In the concrete we can act upon such doctrine only if we really have knowledge of and sympathy with one another.

Wage Earner and Capitalist.

If both the wage-worker and the capitalist are able to enter each into the other's life, to meet him so as to get into genuine sympathy with him, most of the misunderstanding between them will disappear and its place will be taken by a judgment broader, juster, more kindly, and more generous; for each will find in the other the same essential human attributes that exist in himself.

It was President McKinley's peculiar glory that in actual practice he realized this as is given to but few men to realize it; that his broad and deep sympathies made him feel a genuine sense of oneness with all his fellow-Americans, whatever their station or work in life, so that to his soul they were all joined with him in a great brotherly democracy of the spirit. It is not given to many of us in our lives actually to realize this attitude to the extent that he did; but we can at least have it before us as the goal of our endeavor, and by so doing we shall pay honor better than in any other way to the memory of the dead president whose services in life we this day commemorate.

Description of the Mausaleum.

The mausaleum stands on an eminence to which has been given the name of Monument Hill, about two miles due west of the McKinley home in the city of Canton. It is not an ornate affair, but its simplicity is relieved by sufficient artistic embellishment to make it an object of beauty, as well as one of massive proportions and breadth of design.

Four states have contributed a share of the material which has been used in the building of the monument. The granite used in the approaches and the mausaleum proper is from the quarries of Milford, Mass. Tennessee has furnished the gray marble for the interior of the tomb, while the sarcophagi which now holds the bronze caskets in which lie the bodies of the president and Mrs. McKinley, are of dark green granite from Windsor, Vermont. The base upon which the sarcophagi rests is black granite from Berlin, Wis.

From the first step of the approach to the monument, to the actual top of the structure, is 163 feet 6 inches, the mausaleum itself being 98 feet 6 inches high above the summit of the mound. The top of the dome has an oculus 15 feet in diameter, through which comes a softened light, which adds greatly to the beauty of the interior.

The mausaleum is 78 feet 9 inches in diameter. In the center of the floor beneath the dome stands the sarcophagi containing the bodies of the president and Mrs. McKinley, and in the niches on the north side of the dome are caskets containing those of the two daughters, Ida and Mary, who died in infancy.

Huge Doric columns are placed around the interior in such a manner as to appear half buried in the sides of the building. The floor is of mosaic marble, having been brought from many states for the purpose.

Half way down from the top of the first granite steps that lead up to the main entrance on the south side of the mausaleum stands a heroic bronze figure of President McKinley, representing him in the attitude usually assumed when speaking—his left hand holding a roll of manuscript and the right hand in the trousers pocket. Behind the figure is a bronze chair, encircled with a wreath, and draped with the flag of the United States. The bronze figure, which is nine feet high, stands on a pedestal eighteen feet from the base to the feet of the figure.

Twenty-six acres of ground were purchased by the monument commission, and the utmost art of the landscape gardener has been lavished upon the grounds. Natural streams flow past the base of the mound, and trees and flower beds have been arranged with an eye to the greatest artistic beauty.

From the entrance to the grounds on the south to the foot of the mound is 590 feet, and along this distance a double driveway 175 feet in width has been constructed. Between the two sides of the driveway is a lagoon which is constantly filled with fresh water. Long rows of trees flank the lagoon and the driveways.

The mausaleum and grounds have been built and arranged at a cost of $500,000, and it is the intention of the commission to raise an endowment fund of $150,000, which will preclude the charging of any fee for admission.

At the next meeting of the mausaleum trustees custodians will be chosen, and it is the intention to ask for the indefinite detail of soldiers of the regular army to guard the tomb.

The architect was H. Van Buren Magonigle, of New York, and the designer of the bronze figure standing before the mausaleum was Charles Henry Niehaus.

A MANIAC FIREBUG

Was Getting Ready to Set Fire to a Barn in Ohio.

Tiffin, Ohio, Sept. 30.—John Carno, an Italian, en route from San Jose, Cal., to his former home in Italy, was captured here, apparently demented, while placing fence rails against Owen Green's barn with the alleged intention of setting the structure on fire. He had a railroad ticket, good from San Francisco to New York, and an Atlantic steamer ticket for passage for Italy.

The vessel upon which he was to have sailed left port Thursday.

Carno claims to have left San Francisco several days ago with a companion, and that he was attacked and thrown from a Nickel Plate train. Efforts by the authorities to locate relatives of Carno in San Jose have failed.

Impossible Friendships.

Almost all people, when one knows them well enough, are interesting, but there are a great many in one's circle of acquaintance that one can never know well. Year after year goes on, and we may never touch anything really human and vivifying in them or they in us—except for a mere outer shell of formal politeness, we do not know them, though we may meet them daily.

It does not pay to try beyond a certain point—neither gains anything. They are not for your inner circle, nor you for theirs. And there are others who go through all the motions of recognition, yet who are intrinsically insincere. No matter how we may meet them in the larger social life, these have no place in the social life of the home, no matter how gifted or brilliant, or how much sought by others or how cordial seems their greeting to you. Those who are really insincere can neither get nor give any good thing—they cannot make for life in any sense, but only for confusion and the subtle loss of that fine spirit of mutual trust that should be the very basis of family living.—Lillie Hamilton French, in Harper's Bazar.

Jake and the Apple.

It was during an arithmetic class in a country school that Jake Boggs was called upon to solve a problem.

"Now, Jake," began the teacher, "if you had two apples, and your little brother took one, how many would you have left?"

"I'd just like to see him try taking one," said Jake, shaking his fist.

"Well," said the teacher, "we'll put it this way. Suppose you gave him one."

"Yes; but I wouldn't do it," said Jake.

"Just suppose that you did, what would remain?" said the weary teacher.

"A big fool, that's what," replied Jake.—Judge's Library.

"Hydrolithe"

"Hydrolithe" is a new compound of calcium and hydrogen. It gives off its hydrogen when immersed in water, as calcium carbide evolves acetylene, and M. George Jaubert, a French engineer, urges that the new material be adopted as a convenient means for carrying gas to inflate military balloons.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.
In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

TEETH HELD DYNAMITE

And Despondent Farmer's Head Was Blown Into Fragments.

Paris, Ky., Sept. 30—Samuel Bagge, a prominent farmer, despondent, due to ill health, placed a stick of dynamite in his mouth at his home, near Hutchinson, this county, ignited the explosive and blew his head into fragments. The room resembled an abattoir.

The explosion wrecked his home and shook all buildings in the vicinity.

For some time Bagge had been acting queerly. He threatened to commit suicide, but his relatives did not take his words seriously.

Sedalia Student Honored

Columbia, Mo., Sept. 30.—Karl McVey, son of L. A. McVey, of Sedalia, who is studying electrical engineering at the University of Missouri, has been elected a member of the Tau Beta Pi. This is an honorary fraternity organized at Lehigh university in 1886. The eligibles are chosen from those students who have attained a certain degree of scholarship in the engineering department. Mr. McVey is a graduate of the Sedalia High school class of 1904.

Prevented a Runaway.

A horse driven by a man whose name was unknown to the Democrat-Sentinel's informant became unmanageable near Main and Ohio at the noon hour today. The animal swerved to one side of the street, colliding with one of Mayor Collins' vehicles. The latter's horse became frightened and made a dash forward, when pedestrians on the street stopped the animal, after it had been slightly bruised.

NO MORE WOMEN DOCTORS

Only Men Physicians to Be Allowed in an English Asylum.

London, Sept. 30.—Five years ago the problem of saving money induced the county asylum authorities at Fulbourn, near Cambridge, to appoint a woman physician. Since then the staff of women has been allowed to increase. Now appointments to it are to be terminated on the grounds of physical unsuitability—at least, such is the term used in the report of the committee.

There are 250 men and 360 women in Fulbourn asylum, in medical charge of a chief superintendent, Dr. Rogers, and two assistants.

One of the assistants, a woman doctor, resigned upon marriage, and in answer to an advertisement for a successor only three replies were received, all from women. Doubtless, one of these would have been appointed if the medical superintendent had not protested.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THIS CAT IS A "HOBO"

INSISTS ON RIDING ON BRAKEBEAM IN THE STATE OF OREGON.

TOOK PASSAGE ON EXPRESS TRAIN

Out in the Same Section of Country Two Chickens Got Out of a Crate and Rode on the Brakebeams.

Albany, Ore., Sept. 30.—Riding on the brakebeams of the south bound Oregon express, a Maltese kitten came from Portland to Albany Sunday forenoon, and is yet proceeding southward toward California.

The kitten was noticed on the trucks of one of the cars the first time the train was stopped after leaving Portland Sunday morning, and attempts were made at different stations to take it off. But each time the kitten retreated further back under the car in a position where the trainmen could not reach it.

The feline hobo attracted a great deal of attention as the train stopped at Albany at noon.

The crew of this train report a similar occurrence in the freak hobo line on their northward trip last week.

As the expressman was loading a crate of chickens at Davisville, Cal., a station near Sacramento, the crate broke and some of the birds escaped.

Two chickens took refuge on the brakebeams and there they were allowed to stay. They rode northward to Salem, where two boys crawled under the train and took them off. They had traveled 670 miles.

He was arrested while trying to sell it in Cleveland.

Pleasant News for the Public.

Mr. Homer McElhaney, of 107 West Third street, this city, general agent of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, of Hartford, covers a wide territory, embracing the whole of Central and Southwestern Missouri. Regarding his company he says:

The good news comes to all local agents that on and after the 16th day of this month the Connecticut offers to the insuring public the most modern life insurance policies written in the United States, at lower premium rates, and a record of sixty-one years of the largest dividends ever paid by any life insurance company in the world. During the recent Armstrong investigation of life insurance companies in New York, the Connecticut Mutual was examined by this committee and their record during their entire existence was found absolutely clean. So much so that it was held before the world as a model life insurance company, both by the committee and the public press.

In these days of graft, it is pleasant to know that the people have the utmost confidence in at least this one company, and to know that an agent has no reason to misrepresent matters in order to place a policy. Mr. McElhaney is able to report a rapidly growing business in every agency of the company.

A ROMANCE OF THE WAR

SHE NURSED SOLDIER BACK TO LIFE AND THEY BECAME ENGAGED.

A SEPARATION FOLLOWED LATER

Met by Chance in Louisville, Ky., Ten Days Ago, and Their Marriage Was Consummated Last Saturday Evening.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 30.—In the wedding Saturday night of Miss Ruby Katherine Epperson and W. Harry Holt there ended a romance which began in a Porto Rican town during the Spanish-American war.

When hostilities broke out both Holt and Miss Epperson went to the front, Holt as a member of the United States army and Miss Epperson as a Red Cross nurse.

The young man, a son of Judge W. H. Holt, formerly of the United States circuit court, was stricken with typhoid fever and was nursed back to health by Miss Epperson.

During his convalescence they became engaged, but after he had left the hospital a relapse occurred, and the two lost track of each other.

When the trouble between Japan and Russia broke out Miss Epperson went to the far east as a nurse.

Ten days ago Holt, who is now employed by the Southern Express company, looked up from his desk and saw Miss Epperson shipping a package. He hastened to renew the acquaintance and the wedding followed.

NEW WAR ON BEEF TRUST

ADVANCE IN PRICE ALL ALONG THE LINE HAS AROUSED THE PUBLIC.

GRAND JURY WILL HEAR EVIDENCE

Covernment Combine Fighters Now Believe They Have Grip on the "Immune" Organization, Says a Dispatch.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—From government sources comes a hint that the beef trust is again to be investigated. The recent general advance in the price of meats is construed by the federal authorities as an indication of violation of the Grosscup injunction. This injunction, issued after the "immunity bath," restrained the packers from acting in concert, either in the purchase of livestock or in fixing the selling price of their product. A federal grand jury has been summoned for the October term of the district court and gossip has it that the secret moves of the packers for the past 18 months will be inquired into.

President Roosevelt and his trust busting machinery have in the beef trust encountered one monopolistic combination which is immune to all assaults.

The government, under the president's direction, began its attack on the beef trust in May, 1902, at the same time that suit for the dissolution of the Northern Securities company was begun. Since that date, Northern Securities has been crushed, timber wolves in the west have been scotched, robber coal barons and public land thieves have felt the weight of the big stick, railroad officials have been fined for rebating, Standard Oil is on the run, but the beef trust with its cunningly devised system is still doing business in the same old way.

As a trust, it has flourished under government prosecution. The only severe blow dealt the combination was landed by the writer of the "Jungle." This expose has caused the sales of canned products and sausage to drop off a million pounds annually. It compelled the congress to pass a stringent inspection act and this legislation has redounded to the public benefit.

The packers now assert that the refusal of the public at home and abroad to buy canned beef is largely responsible for the prevailing high prices of fresh meats. The customers who formerly ate canned beef are now buying fresh meats, and this increased demand, they assert, has elevated the prices.

The average wholesale price of dressed beef, lamb and mutton is 33 per cent higher than in May, 1902, when the government began its attack on the meat combine. The price of livestock at the stockyards is about the same as in May, 1902. The average wholesale prices of meats are 20 per cent higher than in March, 1906, when Judge Humphrey gave the packers their "immunity bath." The retail price is up 30 per cent since that May day in 1902 and 20 per cent since the government defeat in 1906.

The householder all over the United States is paying the full advance. The poor wretch who is compelled to take his sustainance in restaurants and hotels is paying for choice steaks and chops almost 50 per cent more than when the government began its disciplinary campaign.

Here are the figures; the product is figured in pounds:

May, 1902—Cattle, 6½ cents; wholesale price of dressed beef, 8½ cents; mutton, 6 cents; lamb, 8 cents. Retail prices—Porterhouse steaks, 25 cents; sirloin, 18 cents; rib roast, 20 cents; mutton, 16 cents; lamb, 20 cents.

September, 1907—Cattle, 6½ cents; wholesale price of dressed beef, 12½ cents; mutton, 11 cents; lamb, 13 cents. Retail prices—Porterhouse steaks, 28 and 30 cents; sirloin, 20 cents; mutton, 18 cents, and lamb, 22 cents.

The prices given for the dressed beef and the cattle are the aevrage prevailing at the time. The same is true of the retail prices. The wholesale price for the dressed beef further means what the packer receives for the entire carcass, beef, bone, marrow and muscle.

The by-products, such as hide, tallow and intestines, are not included and are asserted by the packers themselves to form one of their greatest sources of profit. The choice cuts bring prices much above the average given. Other portions sell for 3 and 5 cents a pound.

The prosecution of the government has accomplished nothing but the introduction of federal inspection. The methods and policy of the trust had in nowise been altered.

In fact, since the government began its attack, independent competition has been struck down whenever it showed signs of virility.

WOUNDS WOMAN; KILLS SELF

Mrs. Sutherland's Refusal to Wed Joseph Crews Caused Act.

Glasgow, Mo., Sept. 30.—Joseph Crews, a farmer, shot and mortally wounded Mrs. Sallie Sutherland and then killed himself.

Crews is a widower with five children and Mrs. Sutherland a widow with one child. Crews had been paying attention to Mrs. Sutherland for two or three years, and it is supposed that her refusal to marry him precipitated the tragedy. The two were going home from church, riding on horseback.

An Important Distinction.

"Do you think America is developing an aristocracy?"

"I strongly suspect it," answered Miss Cayenne. "A great deal of deference is being shown toward people who got their money in trade instead of getting it by graft."—Washington Star.

HIS VOICE

In the cellar stood Bertha, cream pitcher in hand. In quest of cream for breakfast, she had stopped, transfixed by the appalling sounds which pierced through the cellar walls.

"You Can Be Trusted."

For reasons which doubtless could be scientifically explained, the song emanating from a young man in the front room of the house next door, while it could be heard in all parts of Bertha's home, burst forth in fullest volume through the stone foundations in a way both sepulchral and comic. Bertha did not know whether to be affected to tears or laughter, but as she had been on the verge of collapse for weeks, the tears prevailed and she leaned against the cold stone wall to weep.

When she returned to the breakfast room, where the family was assembled, her father could be heard grumblingly: "Tom Goodloe is in pretty business disturbing the peace of the neighborhood this way every morning. He deserves to be muzzled."

Tom had told Bertha often that he could not afford to marry on his present salary, yet now he was rushing headlong toward matrimony with the music teacher, regardless of consequence. Bertha was so nervous that she took frequent walks in the park to ease her feelings.

She was sitting on a bench one day when she was accosted by the music teacher with a demand for a few minutes' conversation.

"Tom Goodloe," began the music teacher, "used to be fond of you and now I want you to coax him back. He has proposed to me and will not be refused, he says, unless I confess that I love another. Well, I do; but to confess it to Tom is impossible, because to have the engagement known now might injure the prospects of my intended husband, who is studying for the operatic stage. He writes the most pathetic letters, begging me to take pity on his lonliness and marry him. But we must wait until he has proved himself a success, as I shall convince him when he comes here next week for his vacation. When he arrives, I shall have my hands full without Tom to complicate the situation."

Bertha's eyes flashed. "And you made Tom a neighborhood jest for the sake of the few dollars you received for his instruction!" she cried.

"A poor music teacher must hold her pupils as best she can," returned her former rival coolly. "I have no father and brother to support me as you have. If I have not taught Tom to sing I've made him a more tractable man than he was when puffed up by your adoration."

Bertha rose, disdaining a reply, but she heard the music teacher say: "My secret is safe with you, I am sure. Now that you know I will not have Tom Goodloe you can be trusted to do the rest."

While Bertha was forgiving Tom for his period of hallucination he was, as the music teacher had predicted, very tractable, so Bertha worked out an idea which had occurred to her in one of the dark hours which she disliked to recall. She induced Tom to try comic songs, and his imitable accent and poses soon gained him a reputation.

One morning at the railroad office where he was employed he was amusing his fellow clerks with a funny song. The applause was at its height when the general manager walked in and Tom and the tumult suddenly ceased.

In the afternoon a letter lay on Tom's desk, which had an ominous look. The young man opened it nervously, fearing to find himself discharged. But the letter proved to be an invitation to favor the general manager and a party of friends with songs at a dinner that evening.

The day after the dinner Tom said to Bertha: "I am now in a position to marry whenever you set the day. They have made me a sort of soliciting freight agent. It will be my work to get hold of big shippers who are in town and give them a good time, securing business for our road incidentally. The boys call it being transferred from the labor squad to the force of entertainers. The general manager says I have strong social qualifications."

"Meaning your voice," said Bertha, happily.

"Exactly. He thinks my comic songs are good for business."

Newlands' Eloquence.

Senator Newlands of Nevada was soaring in debate one day, soaring so high he hit the ceiling. He realized he was getting a trifle flowery and, to excuse himself, said: "Indeed, Mr. President, perfervid orafory may be pardoned, for this subject furnishes all the food eloquence needs." That sounded pretty good to Newlands, but he was a bit abashed when he read in the Congressional Record next day that he asserted his topic "furnished all the food elephants need."—Chicago Chronicle.

MAN'S FINE IS $50 AN HOUR

Contempt of Court Is Charge Against Missouri ndividual.

Aurora, Mo., Sept. 30.—Judge John T. Moore, of the Thirty-first judicial district, in a recent session of the circuit court of Douglas county at Ava, broke all records in the matter of a fine for contempt of court.

A man summoned before the grand jury to give evidence concerning the alleged selling of liquor in a local option section baffled the jury in its attempts to secure certain facts. The jurymen appealed to the judge for relief.

When told by the judge that for every hour he refused to answer the question he would be fined $50 and ten days in jail, he was not affected, but stood pat for two and a half days. At last, finding that his predicament was rapidly growing worse and that liberty was fast fading away, he "fessed up."

CAUGHT THE RATTLER

Though He Was Bitten Twice Before Reptile Was Conquered.

Nashville, Ind., Sept. 30.—Frank Samuels, aged 62, while trying to capture a large rattlesnake, was bitten twice on the hand. He succeeded in capturing the snake, however, by putting a forked stick over its head. After capturing the snake he attempted to cut the flesh from around the wound on his hand with a dull pocket knife. His hand and arm are now in such a condition that blood poison is feared.

A few days prior to this Samuels noticed a large rattler in the roadway, and, creeping upon it, succeeded in capturing it with his hands, without injury. Samuels says he understood that a local physician was offering a reward of $25 for a live rattler, hence his action in going after the reptiles.

REGARDING RAILROADS

EIGHT PERSONS WERE KILLED AND TWENTY INJURED IN COLLISION.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

Eight men were killed and a score injured, several fatally, at Bellaire, Ohio, Saturday afternoon, when the Chicago and Wheeling express on the Baltimore and Ohio railway crashed into a freight train which was moving slowly on a siding.

This was due, it is said, to the failure of the operator to throw a switch. The west bound freight had received orders to meet the passenger at the western limits of the Bellaire yard, and was moving slowly along the siding.

Where the wreck occurred there is a sharp curve which prevents the engineers of east bound trains from seeing more than a few feet ahead. The passenger train swung around the curve rapidly, being three hours late, and should have gone on in safety on the main line. The switch to the siding had not been turned, and the train shot into the freight.

The worst damage was done to the smoker, which was telescoped by the baggage car. Every occupant of the smoker, which was telescoped by the passengers in the day coach and two Pullman were tumbled from their seats but not seriously hurt. Engineer Galbraith was parboiled by escaping steam.

Among the passengers were Richard Carle's "Spring Chicken" comic opera company, which was to have played at Wheeling that night. All the members of the company escaped serious injury, except Alfred Dalby, the musical director. It was found necessary to amputate his right arm.

Another report was received that the Japanese sealers had landed on Shelikoff island and killed cattle on the ranges there.

GOLF RECORD BROKEN

Mr. W. H. Reynolds Sets the Pace for Local Players.

Mr. W. H. Reynolds, who is one of the best golfers of the Country club, has just turned in a card showing the smashing of two records. In an eighteen hole match, played with W. J. For the eighteen holes he made an 83. The record for the eighteen holes has been 90. Thus, by making 83, seven strokes were cut off the best score heretofore made by any player over the Country club links.

A WAVE OF CRIME

Chicago Stirred Over the Record of Sunday.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Chicago appeared yesterday to have been seized by a veritable wave of crime. There were two baffling murder mysteries, one murder and suicide and one killing in which the murderer fled and left his victim to die, and in addition there was another attack upon a white girl by a negro, the victim being only 6 years old.

As a result of the unparalleled criminal activity, the police in every station have been given instructions to be more than usually vigilant.

The significant feature in connection with the railway commission's findings is that it places a valuation on the plant of the traction company and the Citizens' railway company, and limits their earnings accordingly.

MRS. J. R. BARRETT DEAD

THE END CAME AT 1:10 O'CLOCK P. M. SUNDAY, OF HEART TROUBLE.

WAS DOWN TOWN SATURDAY NIGHT

Had Resided in Sedalia Thirty Years, and Was Prominent in Church and Social Circles—The Funeral Tomorrow.

Mrs. Matilda Barrett, better known to her intimate friends as Mrs. "Tippie" Neil Barrett, widow of Mr. J. R. Barrett, died suddenly of heart trouble at her apartments at the John L. Hall residence, 423 West Broadway, at 1:10 o'clock SunJay afternoon, aged 63 years.

The news of her demise came as a severe shock to a legion of friends, only a few of whom were aware that she was afflicted with heart ailment, which had caused her to remark on numerous occasions to her closest acquaintances that she never retired at night without arranging all of her affairs, as she did not know what minute she might be stricken.

Saturday night Mrs. Barrett, in her usual happy frame of mind, was down town shopping, and made no complaint of being ill. She returned home early, and, on retiring, soon fell asleep. She slept until 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning, when she awoke with a severe pain in the region of her heart.

She called her grandson, Barrett Emmert, a High school student, from an adjoining room, and the latter summoned Mesdames J. L. Hall and H. J. Smith, who did all possible for the patient, but to no purpose.

A few minutes later Dr. D. T. Abell was called and administered an opiate which brought temporary relief, but during the forenoon Mrs. Barrett's condition became more serious, and at the hour stated she passed peacefully away, without having regained consciousness.

No lady in Sedalia was better known or was held in higher esteem than Mrs. "Tippie" Barrett. She was a member of Calvary Episcopal church, the Women's Guild of the church, the Sorosis club and the Rocking Chair club, and was prominent in church and club work. No more charming hostess ever dwelt in Sedalia, and during the life of Mr. Barrett the famous old Barrett home was the scene of many delightful functions.

Not only was Mrs. Barrett all that is enumerated above, but her deeds of charity, always without ostentation, were many, and in households without number where she had assisted in distress the news of her unexpected demise will be received with deepest sorrow.

Mrs. Barrett was a daughter of Stephen T. Neil, a prominent citizen of Lafayette county, who resided near Higginsville and who died some years ago. She was twice married, the name of her first husband being McClaughrey.

On November 28, 1877, Mrs. McClaughrey was united in wedlock to Mr. Barrett, a widower with two sons, Richard B. and Jonathan F., who are still living, and one daughter, Anna, who died in 1892. No children were born of Mr. Barrett's second marriage.

In the prime of beautiful young womanhood Miss Anna became the bride of Charles E. Emmert, but died in childbirth, leaving the baby boy, Barrett, to the father and grandparents to rear.

Business required that Mr. Emmert, the father, reside elsewhere, and the infant son was given into the keeping of his grandparents. Mr. Barrett died August 10, 1894, and since then Mrs. Barrett had had the rearing of her grandson in charge, doing her part truly well—in fact, no mother could have done more for a child. It is not strange that all who knew Mrs. Barrett are bowed in sorrow at her demise.

The funeral services will be held at Calvary church at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the rector, Rev. Douglass Atwill, officiating.

The music will be in charge of Miss Agnes Scott Longan, who will sing, "Face to Face." A quartette consisting of Miss Longan and Mesdames C. H. Bard, J. H. Rodes and Lillie MacGugin will sing, "Lead, Kindly Light," and the vested choir of the church will sing, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

The following friends of the family will serve as pallbearers: Grant Crawford, J. D. Donnohue, C. C. Evans, W. B. Shirk, Ernest W. Lamy and W. M. Johns.

Manager Olendorf has found it impossible to play Joe Howard and Mabel Barrison for a return engagement at the new Sedalia theater on Oct. 7, on account of previous bookings, but feels sure that he will be able to get them here again some time in December.

LIAISON WITH HER CHARGED TO HORNER BY HIS WIFE IN ATLANTA.

THE DAUGHTER OF A MILLIONAIRE

Suit Is Filed by Mrs. Horner for Divorce, and Horner Sues Her Father for Damages of $100,000.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 30.—Mrs. T. Mitchell Horner, also known as Mrs. Jack Horner, one of the most noted women in Atlanta and Baltimore society, has entered suit here for absolute divorce.

The single allegation on which the suit is based is infidelity on the part of Horner. Mr. and Mrs. Horner were married in Baltimore in 1896 and soon after moved to Atlanta.

Mrs. Horner alleges that her husband has spent a large part of his time with Marie Law and other women, adding that the defendant gave money to Marie Law besides paying her bills.

Marie Law is known as the "Queen of the Demi Monde" in Atlanta. No alimony is asked, as Mrs. Horner has all the property. Her wealth is estimated at over $400,000.

Mrs. Horner is a daughter of Captain and Mrs. Isaac Emerson, of Baltimore. Emerson is rated as a multimillionaire, having grown rich from the sale of a seltzer. Horner's family stands well in Baltimore. He is a graduate of Harvard.

Mrs. Horner left her husband May 14. Three weeks ago Horner entered suit in Baltimore against his wife's parents for $100,000, alleging that they had alienated her affections.

Funeral Services at Sacred Church This Forenoon.

The funeral of Patrick Curran was held this forenoon from Sacred Heart church, many sorrowing friends being present to pay the last tribute to the beloved dead.

The members of Branch No. 157, Catholic Knights and Ladies of America, of which Mr. Curran had been a member for four years, were present in a body, as were also the members of the Altar society, of which Mrs. Curran has been president for several years past.

The Rev. Fr. S. Neiberg, pastor of the church, conducted the services, with requiem mass, and was assisted by the Rev. Fr. Christian Daniel as deacon, and the Rev. Fr. Rudolph Stoltz as sub-deacon. The regular choir furnished the music.

Fr. Neiberg's reference to Mr. Curran as a devout Catholic, model husband and good citizen met with a hearty response at the hands of his auditors, nearly all of whom had known him intimately, and many eyes were dimmed with tears during the most pathetic portions of his utterances.

At the conclusion of the services the casket, which was covered with beautiful floral offerings, among them special pieces from the Hibernians and Barkeepers' union, was removed from the church to the hearse in waiting and conveyed to the Catholic cemetery, where the interment took place, after the usual brief services at the grave, conducted by Fr. Daniel. The gentlemen named in the Democrat-Sentinel of Sunday served as pallbearers.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

CONFERRED THREE DEGREES ON A LARGE CLASS SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

WORK CONTINUED INTO THE NIGHT

At the Conclusion of the Ceremonies a Magnificent Banquet Was Served in the Royal Tribe of Joseph Hall.

Over two hundred members of the order of Knights of Columbus witnessed the conferring of the first, second and third degrees of the order on a class of almost fifty candidates at the hall over the Democrat-Sentinel office Sunday afternoon and evening.

The hall was very appropriately decorated for the occasion, and tables, spread with various substantials and delicacies, set the entire length of the commodious hall, provided room for three hundred guests.

The members of the order were first served at supper, being followed by out-of-town ladies and wives and sweethearts of the local members.

The program was a very select one, but owing to the absence of several persons who were to take part, some of the numbers were omitted. The program as carried out follows:

Mr. J. G. Heydingsfelder and Miss Susie Hudson.

J. G. Heydingsfalder, a painter and paperhanger of this city, and Miss Susie Hudson, a popular young lady, also of this city, were quietly married at the home of the bride's mother, 510 North Grand avenue, by Rev. J. F. Caskey, pastor of the Fifth street M. E. church, South, at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Outside of immediate families, the only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Lingle, of Clinton, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hastie, of Green Ridge. After the wedding a sumptious dinner was served at the home, the bridegroom's mother and sister, Miss Maggie, being present.

To the popular young couple the Democrat-Sentinel extends its congratulations.

The revival meeting conducted by the Church of Christ at the corner of Twelfth and Thompson streets did not close last night, as was expected, because of the great interest being shown. There will be preaching tonight and baptising at the close of the services. All are welcome.

John L. Buckley left Sunday afternoon for a two days' sojourn in Kansas City, where he will consult his former physician regarding the best point in the west or southwest at which to spend the winter, in the hope of recuperating his health, which has prevented his attending to business for several months past.

Mr. Buckley's preference is San Antonio, Texas, but he will be guided largely by the advice of the physician who treated him while he was a patient at St. Margaret's hospital in Kansas City, Kas., the past summer.

No resident of Sedalia has a larger circle of friends than "Johnnie" Buckley, and one and all will join the Democrat-Sentinel is the wish that he may return in the spring with his health perfectly restored.

"LID" SLIPPED SUNDAY

NOT MUCH TROUBLE TO GET THE "REAL STUFF" IN KANSAS CITY, MO.

At John Boyle's Saloon Five Men Apprehended in the Act of Guzling Beer—Arrests at Rooming Houses.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 30.—Patrolmen Clark and Downey found five men drinking beer in a back room of John Boyle's saloon, 1231 West Ninth street, yesterday afternoon. Thomas Kenney, Boyle's bartender, was found in the place and was taken to No. 2 police station. He was charged with violating the Sunday closing law. He gave bond of $51 and was released.

Jennie Van Allen's rooming house, 213 West Third street, was visited by Sergeant Robert Smith and Patrolmen John Crane and John Withrow, who suspected that beer was being sold there early yesterday morning. They arrested Mrs. Van Allen on a charge of sellin liquor without a license. Four cases of beer were seized and taken to police headquarters. The woman gave bond for her appearance in police court.

The rooming house of Mrs. Odie Lewis, 108 West Fifth street, was raided yesterday afternoon by Sergeant H. D. Morrison and Patrolmen Sanderson and Julian. Mrs. Lewis, three other women and a man were arrested on a charge of selling liquor without a license. Eleven cases of beer were found and will be used as evidence. Official Sanction of American Association Obtained.

Dr. A. H. Heaton, president of the Sedalia Automobile club, and whom the fair board placed in charge of the arrangements for the $1,000 ten-mile automobile race to be run at the Missouri state fair on "Sedalia day," Tuesday, October 8, is just in receipt of notice from Secretary Elliott, of the American Automobile association, that official sanction has been given for the state fair race and a charter issued for the Sedalia Automobile club, recently organized.

Under the rules of the American association its members are prohibited from participating in races not officially sanctioned by said association, hence this recognition will clear the way for the entry of the leading autoists of the state.

MAGNIFICENT MAUSALEUM TO PRESIDENT McKINLEY NOW A PUBLIC POSSESSION.

THOUSANDS WITNESSED THE EVENT

Dead President's Successor Delivers Eloquent Oration Lauding the Life and Character of the Martyred Executive.

Canton, Ohio, Sept. 30.—The weather conditions here were favorable for a successful day for the dedication of the McKinley memorial. Thousands of persons poured into the city yesterday and early today to witness the ceremonies, and the city is literally filled.

President Roosevelt and party arrived shortly before noon, and the president was greeted with cheers.

Judge William R. Day was on the program for the first speech and he was followed by the president.

The President's Address.

We have gathered together today to pay our meed of respect and affection to the memory of William McKinley, who as president won a place in the hearts of the American people such as but three or four of all the presidents of this country have ever won. He was of singular uprightness and purity of character, alike in the public and private life; a citizen who loved peace, he did his duty faithfully and well for four years of war when the honor of the nation called him to arms.

As congressman, as governor of his state, and finally as president, he rose to the foremost place among our statesmen, reaching a position which would satisfy the keenest ambition; but he never lost that simple and thoughtful kindness toward every human being, great or small, lofty or humble, with whom he was brought in contact, which so endeared him to our people.

He had to grapple with more serious and complex problems than any president since Lincoln, and yet, while meeting every demand of statesmanship, he continued to live a beautiful and touching family life, a life very healthy for this nation to see in its foremost citizen; and now the woman who walked in the shadow ever after his death, the wife to whom his loss was a calamity more crushing than it could be to any other human being, lies beside him here in the same sepulcher.

An Appropriate Inscription.

There is a singular appropriateness in the inscription on his monument. Mr. Cortelyou, whose relations with him were of such close intimacy, gives me the following information about it: On the president's trip to the Pacific slope, in the spring of 1901, President Wheeler, of the University of California, conferred the degree of LL D. upon him in words so well chosen that they struck the fastidious taste of John Hay, then secretary of state, who wrote and asked for a copy of them from President Wheeler. On the receipt of this copy he sent the following letter to President McKinley, a letter which now seems filled with a strange and unconscious prescience:

"Dear Mr. President: President Wheeler sent me the inclosed at my request. You will have the words in more permanent shape. They seem to me remarkably well chosen, and stately and dignified enough to serve—long henee, please God—as your epitaph. Yours faithfully—John Hay."

"University of California, Office of the President. By authority vested in me by the regents of the University of California, I confer the degree of Doctor of Laws upon William McKinley, president of the United States, a statesman singularly gifted to unite the discordant forces of the government and mold the diverse purposes of men toward progressive and salutary action, a magistrate whose poise of judgment has been tested and vindicated in a sucession of national emergencies; good citizen, brave soldier, wise executive, helper and leader of men, exemplar to his people of the virtues that build and conserve the state, society, and the home.

"Berkeley, May 15, 1901."

Possessed of Rare Gift.

It would be hard to imagine an epitaph which a good citizen would be more anxious to deserve or one which would more hastily describe the qualities of that great and good citizen whose life we here commemorate. He possessed to a very extraordinary degree the gift of uniting discordant forces and securing from them harmonious action which told for good government.

From purposes not merely diverse, but bitterly conflicting, he was able to secure healthful action for the good of the state. In both poise and judgment he rose level to the several emergencies he had to meet as leader of then nation, and like all men with the root of true greatness in them he grew to steadily larger stature under the stress of heavy responsibilities. He was a good citizen and a brave soldier, a chief executive whose wisdom entitled him to the trust which he received throughout the nation.

He was not only a leader of men, but preeminently a helper of men;

TWO WRECKS ON FRISCO

ENGINE OF METEOR JUMPED TRACK WHILE ON DOWN GRADE AT DIXON.

ENGINEER AND MAIL CLERK KILLED

At Anaconda Passenger Run Into a Freight Train and Badly Injured Two Mail Clerks—None of Passengers Seriously Hurt

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—The fast train on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad known as the Meteor, due in St. Louis at 11:30 a. m., was derailed and the cars burned on Dixon Hill, near Dixon, Mo., at 7 o'clock this morning.

According to official advices received at the general offices here, two persons were killed, one seriously injured and many passengers badly bruised, but none killed.

The dead are Engineer Chambers, of Springfield, Mo., and Mail Clerk Frank F. Crissy, of St. Louis, and the seriously injured is Fireman Stockstill of Springfield.

The engine and forward part of the train overturned, the cars taking fire and being entirely consumed. A special train bearing physicians, nurses and fire fighting apparatus was sent from Rolla.

Dixon Hill is a steep grade, sixteen miles in length, and the engine jumped the track while speeding down this grade, tearing up a section of the track and ditching several cars.

Head-End Collision Also.

Anaconda, Mo., Sept. 30.—Two mail clerks were injured, two locomotives demolished and a number of head of cattle killed in a head-end collision late last night near here between a southbound passenger train and a freight on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad.

Mail Clerks C. E. Harrel and H. J. Chamberlain, both of St. Louis, were injured, but will recover.

Beyond a severe shaking up, none of the passengers was hurt.

The freight was attempting to make a siding at Anaconda on short time, when the passenger dashed around the curve at full speed, striking the freight.

ATTORNEYS GENERAL MEETING

Twenty-Two Legal Advisers of States Gather in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—The convention of attorneys general, which was called August 12 by a committee of which Attorney General Hadley, of Missouri, was the chairman, convened here today with attorneys general and assistant attorneys general present from twenty-two states.

The purpose is for a general discussion of the anti-trust laws, railroad rate regulation and state rights, and it is deemed probable that a permanent organization will be effected.

Bride and Groom Were Here.

C. A. Donnohue, a contractor and carpenter from Billings, Mont., and bride, formerly Miss Mabel Maddox, of Pilot Grove, who were married at the bride's home at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, were in the city today, visiting friends, on their way to Billings to reside.

Miss Bohon Resigns.

Miss Mollie Bohon, a chief operator for the Bell Telephone Co., has resigned. Miss Mabel Henderson succeeds her.

"KISSING CASE" SEQUEL

JUSTICE A. D. McCORKLE GIVES HIS VERSION OF A RECENT HEARING.

SEVERAL "STATEMENTS" DENIED

Justice A. D. McCorkle, before whom Orville Cornine was recently arraigned in the "Lost Corner," charged with an assault on William M. Dial, growing out of the latter's kissing Cornine's sweetheart at a social at the Cornine home, requests the publication of the following in the Democrat-Sentinel in explanation of why Cornine was not held for the criminal court:

Nelson, Mo., Sept. 28, 1907. Sedalia Democrat-Sentinel: Some one has favored me with marked copies of the above styled paper and Sedalia Daily Capital, dated Sept. 20, 1907.

The marked articles refer to a case recently brought before this court, and, respectively under the headings as follows: "Proceeding Was Queer," pape 6, and "Didn't Hold Cornine," page 3. Evidently, both articles were elaborated by the same party; or, at all events, by persons of similar mental animus.

These articles, unanswered, would create a very decided impression against me, who is the "Justice McCorkle" mentioned.

The public would not be unreasonable in deciding against me if I failed to say something in reply.

Hence, first I shall mention the untruths presenetd without particular reference to which article contained them.

(a) The "justice" did not enclose with his letter an information charging Orville Cornine with assault with intent to kill, but the affidavit of William M. Dial, charging simply assault and battery.

Before the day set for the hearing, and, in fact, before any paper was filed in this court, said William M. Dial and son visited the prosecuting attorney and a new affidavit, charging felonious assault with intent to kill, was forwarded in place of the first affidavit mentioned. The "evidence showing severe wound with metal knuckles" was a very cloudy showing, indeed.

In that "quite a speech, not understood by the state's representatives," a resume of the testimony was made, and the reasons plainly pointed out why I could not consider the probability of the use of metal knuckles established, and the possibilities thereof rather slim.

The court admits denouncing the occurrence as "very reprehensible," but the superlatives — the most outrageous, worst, etc., are reserved for some other of the five cases on docket at this time from this "Lost Corner."

(b) As to the statement that the defendant, his sweetheart and parents dined at the judge's home "prior to the opening of the case," I have this to say: If the writer of these articles or their informant attempted to say that they dined there on the day of the trial, they are once more mistaken, and said what is and was untrue.

The father of the defendant was invited to dinner, because the "justice" was informed that he, being sick, had taken little food that day, and knowing his entire life to have been honorable and blameless, there could be no reason for suddenly refusing, under the distressing circumstances of his presence, the humanity and courtesy of offering needed food to a sick neighbor. But, as said, he declined and did not eat, even after being persuaded to take a seat at the table. And there were eight persons sitting at the table and certainly witnessed Mr. Cornine's withdrawal from the table, among whom were the state's attorney.

Now, I do hope that this shall suffice to prevent belief in the wholesale misrepresentation of these articles, and "Justice McCorkle" will endeavor to suppress the little suspicion arising in his mind, like a cloud of smoke, that an effort is made to give him a little cold or hot Steel(e) and make him appear in the public eye as being very Dow(dy). Respectfully,

A. R. McCORKLE.

ADVERTISING THAT COUNTS.

Advertising is a fine art and it should be classed as such. Merchants, manufacturers and other men whose business profits depend largely upon the amount of printers' ink they use are rapidly coming to see that a large amount of the money they expend in so-called advertising is absolutely thrown away.

It is not strange, therefore, that the merchants' associations of many of the large cities of the country are deciding to limit their advertising to the newspapers.

They are declaring that programs, business directories, circulars, prospectuses, handbills, pamphlets, posters and other devices designed to separate the advertiser from his cash are stale, flat and unprofitable, and therefore a weariness to the bank account. All of which shows that the legitimate advertiser is at last coming to his senses.

The newspaper is the best possible advertising medium in so many respects that it would be impossible to enumerate them, while the evanescent circular and the flatulant handbill smacks too strongly of the cheap john methods to interest men and women who read the newspapers, including the advertisements.

The time is coming when business men engaged in legitimate pursuits will never think of advertising in anything else than a newspaper. Business men who have level heads and understand how to attract trade have already adopted that rule.

THE COST OF LIVING.

Do you know how much more on the average it costs you to live than it did in 1896? Bradstreet's commercial agency, which keeps account of the ups and downs of the prices of commodities, has answered the question in the last issue of their journal, which says:

"Compared with the low level set July 1, 1896, the gain is 54.8 per cent." So if it cost you $100 a month to live then it costs you $154 now. The protected trusts are the chief cause of high prices, and there seems to be a determination by the dominant political party to refuse to revise the tariff which protects the trusts and prevents competition. If the republican party wins in the coming national election the leaders will declare that it is an endorsement of the tariff policy of protecting the trusts, and there can be but little relief from trust high prices as long as the tariff protects them.

As large profits have induced the trusts to manufacture more than the people can consume, the surplus is sold abroad at bargain prices. Why should not the American people participate in these bargains the trusts sell to foreigners?

MONEY TO BURN.

Year after year men rock the boat and fire the gun that they didn't know was loaded, and the treasury officials tell us that there is an unending succession of men who do not trust the banks, and, therefore, put their money in the stove in summer and forget it in the fall when they have to start fires. Burnt bills come to the treasury in Washington for redemption, and the officials of the treasury in Washington can keep track of the progress of frost, beginning in Maine early in September and gradually moving south.

The other day burnt money came from Greene county, Indiana, indicating cold weather unusually early in the season. Next month charred notes in great quantities will come in from many points.

A FILIPINO PUZZLE.

Forty congressmen, representing both parties, have gone on record in the New York Herald as favoring a sale of the Philippine islands; forty-one others want to try the experiment of long range government still further, but have doubts about the outcome; ten others would be willing to turn the islands over to the natives at once. All of which shows that opinion is somewhat mixed.

That the Philippines are a burden and will remain so indefinitely is established in the minds of a large majority of the American people.

In Africa the republican party must be pretty firmly established, for the tuft of an elephant's tail is a badge of honor borne aloft by the herald who predicts a king. Secretary William Loeb has received from our minister resident in Liberia one of these tufts, and he is now in a position to march in advance of our president, bearing aloft the tuft of the tail of that animal which Tom Nast a generation ago made the emblem of the republican party, perhaps because it is voracious.

There is a belief among many of the residents of Maryland that that state will furnish one or the other end of the democratic presidential ticket next year, and thus raise the barrier which ever since Appomattox has barred out southern men from any of the prizes of the national convention.

Louis Stuyvesant Chanler, lieutenant governor of New York, mentioned as a possible candidate for the democratic nomination for president, has been invited to deliver an address at the coming Georgia state fair on the political issues of the day.

DOG FIRES SHOT INTO MAN

Leaps Against Gun, Disabling Engineer for Life.

Eldon, Mo., Sept. 30.—George E. Smith, an engineer on the Rock Island railroad, while hunting near Eldon, was shot by his dog, which leaped against the trigger of his gun, discharging it.

The shot tore a large hole in Mr. Smith's wrist and even though the hand may not be amputated, it is probable that the member will be useless for life, and the engineer deprived of his occupation.

Mr. Smith was leaning on the muzzle of the gun when the dog barked in play and leaped to place its paws against his chest. The animal let its feet slowly slide down the barrel until one paw touched the trigger.

TOLD JURY TOO BIG A TALE

Macon County Thief Too Eager to Aid Confederate.

Macon, Mo., Sept. 30.—A touching case of devotion was spread out before a jury in the circuit court Saturday. J. E. Stevens and Will H. Collins, a pair of rough and ready chaps, were in jail for burglarizing Patterson's general merchandise store at Elmer, Macon county. They took all the clothes they could carry and were apprehended with the goods on them.

Collins pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. His pal, Stevens, claimed to be an injured innocent, and that he could prove it by Collins. Then Collins went on the stand and swore that he broke into the store, helped himself to a load of shoes, coats and things, and started up the track with them.

He found Stevens lying by the roadside, and, fearing he would catch cold, put on him from the plunder a pair of pants, shoes and a nice warm coat, without Stevens waking up to learn who his good angel was. Collins never batted an eyelash while telling his remarkable tale, and neither did the jury when they heard it.

They found Stevens guilty, but complimented Collins for his romantic vision. He had done what he could.

GOT VERDICT OF $25,000

BECAUSE A KENTUCKIAN HAD ALIENATED HIS WIFE'S AFFECTIONS.

SPICY MISSIVES READ IN COURT

Get Rid of Your Husband by Dope or Pistol Was the Advice of W. L. Grady to Clarence L. Thomas' Wife.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 30.—A verdict for $25,000 damages was given Saturday to Clarence L. Thomas, the Cincinnati accountant, against W. L. Graddy, the Woodford county farmer, for alieniating the affections of Mrs. Ada Thomas, the wife of Clarence Thomas.

The verdict was for the full amount sued for, and was a surprise to everybody, for while many people thought Thomas should have a verdict, others thought the keeping of all of Graddy's letters and Thompson's visits to his wife after they had separated, showed a conspiracy to get Graddy in the toils and bleed him.

Judge Cochran, in his instructions to the jury, said the case was a one-sided one, as the evidence favored Thomas beyond a doubt, and the only question for the jury to pass upon was the amount of damages.

When court began in the morning more letters which Graddy had written to Mrs. Thomas, in his mad infatuation, were read to the jury. On July 26, 1905, Graddy was insistent, with the suggestion that Mrs. Thomas manage some way to put "Old T." out of the way that she might get his $10,000 life insurance, saying:

"We can get off then and have a good time to ourselves as long as it lasts."

He suggests using "drops like you got in Lexington," or that she "accidentally" do it with her little gun.

On January 15, 1906, Graddy had threatened to "dress up in my gold cuff buttons and my gun and come down and get drunk and raise h—l with the man who is trying to cut me out."

In the same letter Graddy tells of winning a case in court. "I won my case in court and if I get anything after paying the lawyers you shall have it."

In a letter written February 3, 1907, upon which special stress was laid by the plaintiff's attorneys, Graddy said:

"But if you do put up for it make him put up for it all the time. Suppose you go up and see him and get a policy on his life and then get rid of him? It would be so easy and then we could go off and have such a nice time together as long as it lasts. You could accidentally shoot him with the gun, but I had rather you would do something else. Think of it—we could have a nice little fortune some day if we could get rid of him."

Again he said: "Your mother will not live all the time. She is a good mother or she would not have me do as I do. She knows, however, that you have to have somebody to love. She knows that I have two wives and that I love you always and alone. You said that she did not like me, but I know she does, for she smiled when she came in and saw me hugging you up. God knows I wish I had you here to hug you up now."

On February 5, the same year, a letter said: "Ada, be careful with that little gun, for I saw in the paper where people shot themselves with such things sometimes. Put it in a drawer and keep it there, but if it was Old T. who got shot it wouldn't make much difference if you got the $10,000 policy."

Judge Julian asked that Attorney Harris, who represented Graddy, take the stand when he had concluded the reading of the letters. He asked Harris where Graddy is now. He said he did not know. He said he had no information as to where he went to after the publication that the suit was to be brought. In reply to the question whether or not he was in Kentucky, Harris answered: "Maybe he is and maybe he is not I have no more knowledge of this matter than you have."

In answer to other questions, Mr. Harris said that Graddy had a family consisting of a wife, two daughters and a son. He was last in Woodford county between two and three weeks ago. He did not know when he arrived, but he left after an interview with him (Harris). He had no knowledge where Graddy went to. In regard to the assignment made by Graddy, Mr. Harris said that after the publication of the suit he made an assignment of his property for the purpose of protecting his legitimate creditors.

With this Judge Julian said that the plaintiff would rest, and Mr. Harris also announced that the defendant rested. Much surprise was created when the attorneys for Graddy rested his case without the introduction of any evidence after the reading of such damaging letters by the attorneys for plaintiff. It had been expected that an attempt would be made to break down the character of Mrs. Thomas by witnesses, but the attorneys for Graddy apparently relied solely upon their ability to asperse her character through the very letters upon which the defense built its case.

The jury took the case at noon and about an hour after they returned from dinner the verdict was rendered.

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 30.—State Highway Engineer Curtis Hill has been spending the past week along the route of the southern state highway between St. Louis and this city. Several meetings have been called for next month at which Engineer Hill will be present. The first will be at Jefferson City, October 22, and then will follow meetings in Osage county at three points, Westphalia, October 23 Linn, October 24, and Freeburg, October 25.

RATS IN COURT HOUSE

Ate the Exhibits and Spoiled Grain Dealer's Law Suit.

St. Louis, Mo., SSept. 30.—A letter received by Attorney J. M. Lasley relates that rats have wrecked the suit of his client, D. I. Bushnell, a St. Louis grain dealer, against Johnson & Son, of Goshen, Ind., by stealing into the county clerk's office at Goshen and eating the several exhibits filed by Lasley.

Without the bags of seed, labeled Exhibit A, etc., the depositions are meaningless. Lasley must examine his witnesses again and record their testimony anew.

"I was so annoyed by the conditions of affairs," writes Lew Vail, a Goshen lawyer, who filed the suit for Lasley, "that I have not done anything yet in the premises. I am trying to decide whether to bring action against the rats for larceny or the court house cats for criminal negligence."

There are a great many people who have slight attacks of indigestion and dyspepsia nearly all the time. Their food may satisfy the appetite, but it fails to nourish the body simply because the stomach is not in a fit condition to do the work it is supposed to do. It can't digest the food you eat. The stomach should be given help. You ought to take something that will do the work your stomach can't do. Kodol for indigestion and dyspepsia, a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids, digests the food itself and gives strength and health to the stomach. Pleasant to take. Sold by Arlington pharmacy.

BANNER STATE FAIR SUNDAY

Religious Services Held for Throng at Springfield, Ill.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 30.—With thousands of visitors thronging the grounds and the greater number of paid admissions for Sunday in the history of the big show, yesterday proved the banner Sunday of the Illinois state fair. The gate receipts were more than $200 above those of Sunday last year, and the total number of visitors is estimated at 5,000.

Religious services conducted in the Woman's building were the feature of the day. A lecture on "The Mission of America" was delivered by the Rev. E. B. Rogers, pastor of the Central Baptist church, of this city.

Except for these services there was little about the grounds to remind the visitor that the day was Sunday. The work of completing the various exhibits was continued.

MAN WHO CAUSED WRECK

SAYS THAT HE WILL CONTINUE RAILROAD WORK AND GET TO THE FRONT.

THE RECENT M. K. & T. COLLISION

Operator Is 24 Years Old Instead of 19—What He Had to Say in Regard to His Connection With the Trouble.

The death of four men following his going to sleep while on duty as night operator at Paris, Mo., one week after being assigned the position, has not altered the determination of Clay D. Brown, 24 years old, to become what he told his friends he would some day—a train dispatcher and then a big railroad man, writes a staff correspondent of the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

While four families are still weeping over freshly-made graves and railroad men from one end to the other of the Hannibal division of the M., K. & T. are talking of how their comrades were hurled into eternity without even time to get off the engine seats, as the result of a blunder, Brown, on his brother's farm, eight miles south of Madison, Mo., is planning to get another position as operator. In fact, he says that he has not been formally "fired." This, M., K. & T. officials say, is quite superfluous.

Letting a train go by while he slept and later taking orders to arrange a meeting point for it, is what the officials charge against Brown and what Brown admits he did.

His watch was twelve hours, from 7 o'clock in the evening until 7 the next morning. He had been on duty more than nine hours when he went to sleep and the wreck occurred in the eleventh hour of his "trick"—the railroad parlance for working hours.

Hoped Luck Would Save Train.

Realizing that he had made a mistake, but trusting, he says, to luck and the alertness of the dispatcher and other operators to avert the crash, he went to his boarding house when relieved of duty and went to sleep.

He was notified by the station agent an hour later that four men had been killed and five others injured in the wreck following his nap, in the dreaded "Pickle fish" series of curves two and one-half miles from Moberly.

Brown was not horror-stricken nor hysterical. He talked calmly with the agent for awhile and then he says he turned over and tried to go to sleep again.

"But sleep was gone for me then," asserts Brown, "and I tossed and rolled, wracked by what had happened."

It was not until a friend went to his bed and advised him to arise and dress and go to his home near Madison, fourteen miles away, where he was born and reared, and consult with his relatives, that Brown got up.

He then caught a freight train for Madison, where he received soothing assurances from his friends that the tragedy was one of those occurrences in railroad life that are unavoidable.

He had fears of physical harm when he was ordered to Moberly to appear before the coroner's jury, but when he went before that body he gave his testimony in a straightforward manner and his swollen eyes alone showed the fears he had experienced.

And now, less than a week later, the smile that has made two deep wrinkles on each side of his face, has come back, and he declares that he will make good his promise to friends when he was graduated from a telegraphers' school in St. Louis last June to some day reach the roll top desk goal in railroad work. And his friends believe he will.

Seasoned railroad men, who know the ways of the corporations and their memory, think differently.

I did not realize that, sitting there with my hands over my eyes suffering from headache, I had been asleep when the dispatcher called me, said Brown in his statement. Nor did I realize the flight of time. I told him that the train had not passed. Even ten minutes later, I told him I was sure it had not passed.

When I found the train had 'got by I prayed that someone would stop it. When I went to my boarding house, I was still hoping that there had not been a wreck, although I have since learned that the trains had met half an hour before I left the station.

It was my first week of night work and I was not accustomed to it. This was the first time, however, that I had ever gone to sleep. I slept from 9 in the morning until 3 in the afternoon the day before, but woke up with a dull headache. I do not know when I went to sleep, but it was after 4 o'clock. The dispatcher asked me if the train had passed at 7:30. This call must have awakened me.

The Missouri eight hour law, by an act of 1907, provides a fine of $1,000 for any railroad company, corporation or person who permits an operator, directing trains by telephone, telegraph or signal, or employe of the block system, to work more than eight hours a day, except where the station in which he is employed is closed at night.

In this case the operator will be permitted to work twelve hours out of the twenty-four, with an hour off for meals.

In case of a washout or other emergency the law permits the employe to work sixteen hours out of twenty-four, where the station is closed at night.

A CONDUCTOR ARRESTED

PILFERING UNION PACIFIC TRAINS BETWEEN OMAHA AND WEST.

MERCHANDISE THROWN OFF CARS

Conductor Claims It Was Done by Roadsters Who Intimidated Crew With Revolvers—Company Now Investigating

Train after train of the Union Pacific Railroad company has been looted within the last two months between Omaha and Grand Island, and special officers of the railroad company and Omaha police are on the lookout for the thieves, says the Omaha Bee.

This fact became known Tuesday evening, when Officer Shepherd, of the police department, arrested Conductor G. C. Miller, 1312 South Sixth street, whose train was pilfered Sunday evening at Millard, and several hundred dollars' worth of merchandise thrown off. The conductor is held at police headquarters for investigation.

On the way to the police station, after his arrest at Sixth and Pierce streets, Conductor Miller said to a reporter for the Bee:

"My train was frisked at Millard, but I could not do anything about it. The fellows who break open the merchandise cars and throw off goods always carry weapons and a conductor who interferes with their business gets shot full of holes. I knew they were on the train and throwing off the stuff, but all I could do was to let them alone until we arrived at Millard, when I sealed up the cars. The men were gone.

Officials of the Union Pacific declare a number of trains have been pilfered between Omaha and Grand Island, and police officers believe members of the train crews are guilty. Conductor Miller was arrested in a saloon Tuesday evening, but was not spending money freely and had but 65 cents on his person when taken to the station.

"They suspect me of stealing from the cars in my train," he said. "I have worked for the company for years and held a good position. Of course my arrest today will cause my discharge, but I would not work for the company now for any amount of money. They will have a hard time to prove that the crew of my train ever looted a car."

Holding members of a train crew as suspicious characters recalled to railroad men the daring stunts of the conductors and brakemen on the old mountain roads, when it was no unusual thing to steal several sacks of ore valued at $1,000 each. At one time the Denver and Rio Grande lost a car load of gold ore from the Little Johnson mine at Leadville, and it was learned that the train crew had skillfully changed cards from a car of low grade ore to the car of high grade and shipped it to Mexico. The result of the work resulted in private fortunes for the conductor and head brakeman. The conductor who switched the cars on the Denver and Rio Grande now lives on a big ranch in Nebraska.

A later issue of the Omaha Bee says that the way bills carried by Conductor Miller were found in the car that was looted, and a portion of the stolen goods were found in his home.

SALARIES SHOULD GO UP

The Cost of Living Has Increased Fifty Per Cent.

Bishop Cranston gave some plain talk on paying preachers higher salaries at the German Methodist conference yesterday morning, says Sunday's St. Louis Globe-Democrat. "The cost of living in the last ten years," he said, "has increased 50 per cent. How much per cent have you increased the pastors' salaries? Hasn't it increased 50 per cent, pastor?" he inquired, addressing Rev. J. F. Froeschle, the pastor of Salem church.

"Well, at least 40," answered Rev. Froeschle.

"Then you ought to increase ministers' salaries 40 per cent," the bishop continued. Pardon me if I speak plainly. Starvation doesn't beat around the bush, and old seedy clothes are plain enough spoken. I have always boasted of the liberality of our German and Scandinavian brethren. May my boast be true in this respect, also."

MURDER AND SUICIDE

Unable to Sleep, Chicagoan Slays Wife and Then Self.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 30.—Ross C. Brice's baby was fretful all of Saturday night, and because Brice was unable to sleep in consequence, he shot his wife and then himself Sunday morning. Both died a few hours afterward.

The couple retired early Saturday evening, but the baby became fretful. Brice left the house in disgust. Returning at 9 o'clock, he called his wife from bed and shot her as she opened the door. A second shot killed himself.

STOLE A GIRL'S WATCH

Confessed at the Pseudo Threat of Being Executed.

Winchester, Ky., Sept. 30.—The sight of a rope was all that was necessary to get a confession from John Dutch and George Davenport, aged 8 and 10 years, that they stole a watch from Miss Sue Busch. They told where they had hidden it.

When examined before Judge Evans the lads stoutly denied that they had stolen the watch, but when they were placed in jail and the officers procured a rope, telling the boys they would be hanged, the little fellows broke down and led the officers to the spot where they had hidden the timepiece.

for one of his most marked traits was the intense human quality of his wide and deep sympathy. Finally, he not merely preached, he was, that most valuable of all citizens in a democracy like ours, a man who in the highest place served as an unconscious example to his people of the virtues that build and conserve alike our public life, and the foundation of all public life, the intimate life of the home.

Lesson for Human Sympathy.

Many lessons are taught us by his career, but none more valuable than the lesson of broad human sympathy for and among all of our citizens of all classes and creeds. No other president has ever more deserved to have his life work characterized in Lincoln's words as being carried on "with malice toward none, with charity toward all." As a boy he worked hard with his hands; he entered the Army as a private soldier; he knew poverty; he earned his own livelihood; and by his own exertions he finally rose to the position of a man of moderate means.

Not merely was he in personal touch with farmer and town dweller, with capitalist and wageworker, but he felt an intimate understanding with each; and his consistent effort was to try to judge all by the same standard and to treat all with the same justice. Arrogance toward the weak, and envious hatred of those well off, were equally abhorrent to his just and gentle soul.

Surely this attitude of his should be the attitude of all our people today. It would be a cruel disaster to this country to permit ourselves to adopt an attitude of hatred and envy toward success worthily won, toward wealth honestly acquired. Let us in this respect profit by the example of the republics of this western hemisphere to the south of us. Some of these republics have prospered greatly; but there are certain ones that have lagged far behind, that still continue in a condition of material poverty, of social and political unrest and confusion.

Honest Industry Protected.

Without exception the republics of the former class are those in which honest industry has been assured of reward and protection; those where a cordial welcome has been extended to the kind of enterprise which benefits the whole country, while incidentally, as is right and proper, giving substantial rewards to those who manifest it. On the other hand, the poor and backward republics in which the lot o fthe average citizen is least desirable, and the lot of the laboring man worst of all, are precisely those republics in which industry has been killed because wealth exposed its owner to spoilation.

To these communities foreign capital now rarely comes, because it has been found that as soon as capital is employed so as to give substantial remuneration to those supplying it, it excites ignorant envy and hostility, which result in such oppressive action, within or without the law, as sooner or later to work a virtual confiscation. Every manifestation of feeling of this kind in our civilization should be crushed at the outset by the weight of a sensible public opinion.

From the standpoint of our material prosperity there is only one other thing as important as the discouragement of a spirit of envy and hostility toward honest business men, toward honest men of means; this is the discouragement of dishonest business men, the war upon the chicanery and wrongdoing which are peculiarly repuisive, peculiarly obnoxious, when exhibited by men who have no excuse of want, of poverty, of ignorance for their crimes.

Exists in Safety Under the Law.

Men of means, and above all men of great wealth, can exist in safety under the peaceful protection of the state, only in orderly societies, where liberty manifests itself through and under the law. It is these men who, more than others, should, in the interests of the class to which they belong, in the interests of their children and their children's children, seek in every way, but especially in the conduct of their lives, to insist upon and to build up respect for the law.

It may not be true from the standpoint of some particular individual of this class, but in the long run it is preeminently true from the standpoint of the class as a whole, no less than of the country as a whole, that it is a veritable calamity to achieve a temporary triumph by violation or evasion of the law; and we are friends of the man of property, we show ourselves the staunchest upholders of the rights of property, when we set our faces like flint against those offenders who do wrong in order to acquire great wealth or who use this wealth as a help to wrongdoing.

Wrongdoing is confined to no class. Good and evil are to be found among both rich and poor, and in drawing the line among our fellolws we must draw it on the conduct and not on worldly possessions. In the abstract most of us will admit this. In the concrete we can act upon such doctrine only if we really have knowledge of and sympathy with one another.

Wage Earner and Capitalist.

If both the wage-worker and the capitalist are able to enter each into the other's life, to meet him so as to get into genuine sympathy with him, most of the misunderstanding between them will disappear and its place will be taken by a judgment broader, juster, more kindly, and more generous; for each will find in the other the same essential human attributes that exist in himself.

It was President McKinley's peculiar glory that in actual practice he realized this as is given to but few men to realize it; that his broad and deep sympathies made him feel a genuine sense of oneness with all his fellow-Americans, whatever their station or work in life, so that to his soul they were all joined with him in a great brotherly democracy of the spirit. It is not given to many of us in our lives actually to realize this attitude to the extent that he did; but we can at least have it before us as the goal of our endeavor, and by so doing we shall pay honor better than in any other way to the memory of the dead president whose services in life we this day commemorate.

Description of the Mausaleum.

The mausaleum stands on an eminence to which has been given the name of Monument Hill, about two miles due west of the McKinley home in the city of Canton. It is not an ornate affair, but its simplicity is relieved by sufficient artistic embellishment to make it an object of beauty, as well as one of massive proportions and breadth of design.

Four states have contributed a share of the material which has been used in the building of the monument. The granite used in the approaches and the mausaleum proper is from the quarries of Milford, Mass. Tennessee has furnished the gray marble for the interior of the tomb, while the sarcophagi which now holds the bronze caskets in which lie the bodies of the president and Mrs. McKinley, are of dark green granite from Windsor, Vermont. The base upon which the sarcophagi rests is black granite from Berlin, Wis.

From the first step of the approach to the monument, to the actual top of the structure, is 163 feet 6 inches, the mausaleum itself being 98 feet 6 inches high above the summit of the mound. The top of the dome has an oculus 15 feet in diameter, through which comes a softened light, which adds greatly to the beauty of the interior.

The mausaleum is 78 feet 9 inches in diameter. In the center of the floor beneath the dome stands the sarcophagi containing the bodies of the president and Mrs. McKinley, and in the niches on the north side of the dome are caskets containing those of the two daughters, Ida and Mary, who died in infancy.

Huge Doric columns are placed around the interior in such a manner as to appear half buried in the sides of the building. The floor is of mosaic marble, having been brought from many states for the purpose.

Half way down from the top of the first granite steps that lead up to the main entrance on the south side of the mausaleum stands a heroic bronze figure of President McKinley, representing him in the attitude usually assumed when speaking—his left hand holding a roll of manuscript and the right hand in the trousers pocket. Behind the figure is a bronze chair, encircled with a wreath, and draped with the flag of the United States. The bronze figure, which is nine feet high, stands on a pedestal eighteen feet from the base to the feet of the figure.

Twenty-six acres of ground were purchased by the monument commission, and the utmost art of the landscape gardener has been lavished upon the grounds. Natural streams flow past the base of the mound, and trees and flower beds have been arranged with an eye to the greatest artistic beauty.

From the entrance to the grounds on the south to the foot of the mound is 590 feet, and along this distance a double driveway 175 feet in width has been constructed. Between the two sides of the driveway is a lagoon which is constantly filled with fresh water. Long rows of trees flank the lagoon and the driveways.

The mausaleum and grounds have been built and arranged at a cost of $500,000, and it is the intention of the commission to raise an endowment fund of $150,000, which will preclude the charging of any fee for admission.

At the next meeting of the mausaleum trustees custodians will be chosen, and it is the intention to ask for the indefinite detail of soldiers of the regular army to guard the tomb.

The architect was H. Van Buren Magonigle, of New York, and the designer of the bronze figure standing before the mausaleum was Charles Henry Niehaus.

A MANIAC FIREBUG

Was Getting Ready to Set Fire to a Barn in Ohio.

Tiffin, Ohio, Sept. 30.—John Carno, an Italian, en route from San Jose, Cal., to his former home in Italy, was captured here, apparently demented, while placing fence rails against Owen Green's barn with the alleged intention of setting the structure on fire. He had a railroad ticket, good from San Francisco to New York, and an Atlantic steamer ticket for passage for Italy.

The vessel upon which he was to have sailed left port Thursday.

Carno claims to have left San Francisco several days ago with a companion, and that he was attacked and thrown from a Nickel Plate train. Efforts by the authorities to locate relatives of Carno in San Jose have failed.

Impossible Friendships.

Almost all people, when one knows them well enough, are interesting, but there are a great many in one's circle of acquaintance that one can never know well. Year after year goes on, and we may never touch anything really human and vivifying in them or they in us—except for a mere outer shell of formal politeness, we do not know them, though we may meet them daily.

It does not pay to try beyond a certain point—neither gains anything. They are not for your inner circle, nor you for theirs. And there are others who go through all the motions of recognition, yet who are intrinsically insincere. No matter how we may meet them in the larger social life, these have no place in the social life of the home, no matter how gifted or brilliant, or how much sought by others or how cordial seems their greeting to you. Those who are really insincere can neither get nor give any good thing—they cannot make for life in any sense, but only for confusion and the subtle loss of that fine spirit of mutual trust that should be the very basis of family living.—Lillie Hamilton French, in Harper's Bazar.

Jake and the Apple.

It was during an arithmetic class in a country school that Jake Boggs was called upon to solve a problem.

"Now, Jake," began the teacher, "if you had two apples, and your little brother took one, how many would you have left?"

"I'd just like to see him try taking one," said Jake, shaking his fist.

"Well," said the teacher, "we'll put it this way. Suppose you gave him one."

"Yes; but I wouldn't do it," said Jake.

"Just suppose that you did, what would remain?" said the weary teacher.

"A big fool, that's what," replied Jake.—Judge's Library.

"Hydrolithe"

"Hydrolithe" is a new compound of calcium and hydrogen. It gives off its hydrogen when immersed in water, as calcium carbide evolves acetylene, and M. George Jaubert, a French engineer, urges that the new material be adopted as a convenient means for carrying gas to inflate military balloons.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.
In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

And Despondent Farmer's Head Was Blown Into Fragments.

Paris, Ky., Sept. 30—Samuel Bagge, a prominent farmer, despondent, due to ill health, placed a stick of dynamite in his mouth at his home, near Hutchinson, this county, ignited the explosive and blew his head into fragments. The room resembled an abattoir.

The explosion wrecked his home and shook all buildings in the vicinity.

For some time Bagge had been acting queerly. He threatened to commit suicide, but his relatives did not take his words seriously.

This is an honorary fraternity organized at Lehigh university in 1886. The eligibles are chosen from those students who have attained a certain degree of scholarship in the engineering department. Prevented a Runaway.

A horse driven by a man whose name was unknown to the Democrat-Sentinel's informant became unmanageable near Main and Ohio at the noon hour today. The animal swerved to one side of the street, colliding with one of Mayor Collins' vehicles. The latter's horse became frightened and made a dash forward, when pedestrians on the street stopped the animal, after it had been slightly bruised.

NO MORE WOMEN DOCTORS

Only Men Physicians to Be Allowed in an English Asylum.

London, Sept. 30.—Five years ago the problem of saving money induced the county asylum authorities at Fulbourn, near Cambridge, to appoint a woman physician. Since then the staff of women has been allowed to increase. Now appointments to it are to be terminated on the grounds of physical unsuitability—at least, such is the term used in the report of the committee.

There are 250 men and 360 women in Fulbourn asylum, in medical charge of a chief superintendent, Dr. Rogers, and two assistants.

One of the assistants, a woman doctor, resigned upon marriage, and in answer to an advertisement for a successor only three replies were received, all from women. Doubtless, one of these would have been appointed if the medical superintendent had not protested.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

INSISTS ON RIDING ON BRAKE-BEAM IN THE STATE OF OREGON.

TOOK PASSAGE ON EXPRESS TRAIN

Out in the Same Section of Country Two Chickens Got Out of a Crate and Rode on the Brakebeams.

Albany, Ore., Sept. 30.—Riding on the brakebeams of the south bound Oregon express, a Maltese kitten came from Portland to Albany Sunday forenoon, and is yet proceeding southward toward California.

The kitten was noticed on the trucks of one of the cars the first time the train was stopped after leaving Portland Sunday morning, and attempts were made at different stations to take it off. But each time the kitten retreated further back under the car in a position where the trainmen could not reach it.

The feline hobo attracted a great deal of attention as the train stopped at Albany at noon.

The crew of this train report a similar occurrence in the freak hobo line on their northward trip last week.

As the expressman was loading a crate of chickens at Davisville, Cal., a station near Sacramento, the crate broke and some of the birds escaped.

Two chickens took refuge on the brakebeams and there they were allowed to stay. They rode northward to Salem, where two boys crawled under the train and took them off. They had traveled 670 miles.

Pleasant News for the Public.

Mr. Homer McElhaney, of 107 West Third street, this city, general agent of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, of Hartford, covers a wide territory, embracing the whole of Central and Southwestern Missouri. Regarding his company he says:

The good news comes to all local agents that on and after the 16th day of this month the Connecticut offers to the insuring public the most modern life insurance policies written in the United States, at lower premium rates, and a record of sixty-one years of the largest dividends ever paid by any life insurance company in the world. During the recent Armstrong investigation of life insurance companies in New York, the Connecticut Mutual was examined by this committee and their record during their entire existence was found absolutely clean. So much so that it was held before the world as a model life insurance company, both by the committee and the public press.

In these days of graft, it is pleasant to know that the people have the utmost confidence in at least this one company, and to know that an agent has no reason to misrepresent matters in order to place a policy. Mr. McElhaney is able to report a rapidly growing business in every agency of the company.

A ROMANCE OF THE WAR

SHE NURSED SOLDIER BACK TO LIFE AND THEY BECAME ENGAGED.

A SEPARATION FOLLOWED LATER

Met by Chance in Louisville, Ky., Ten Days Ago, and Their Marriage Was Consummated Last Saturday Evening.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 30.—In the wedding Saturday night of Miss Ruby Katherine Epperson and W. Harry Holt there ended a romance which began in a Porto Rican town during the Spanish-American war.

When hostilities broke out both Holt and Miss Epperson went to the front, Holt as a member of the United States army and Miss Epperson as a Red Cross nurse.

The young man, a son of Judge W. H. Holt, formerly of the United States circuit court, was stricken with typhoid fever and was nursed back to health by Miss Epperson.

During his convalescence they became engaged, but after he had left the hospital a relapse occurred, and the two lost track of each other.

When the trouble between Japan and Russia broke out Miss Epperson went to the far east as a nurse.

Ten days ago Holt, who is now employed by the Southern Express company, looked up from his desk and saw Miss Epperson shipping a package. He hastened to renew the acquaintance and the wedding followed.

NEW WAR ON BEEF TRUST

ADVANCE IN PRICE ALL ALONG THE LINE HAS AROUSED THE PUBLIC.

GRAND JURY WILL HEAR EVIDENCE

Government Combine Fighters Now Believe They Have Grip on the "Immune" Organization, Says a Dispatch.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—From government sources comes a hint that the beef trust is again to be investigated. The recent general advance in the price of meats is construed by the federal authorities as an indication of violation of the Grosscup injunction. This injunction, issued after the "immunity bath," restrained the packers from acting in concert, either in the purchase of livestock or in fixing the selling price of their product. A federal grand jury has been summoned for the October term of the district court and gossip has it that the secret moves of the packers for the past 18 months will be inquired into.

President Roosevelt and his trust busting machinery have in the beef trust encountered one monopolistic combination which is immune to all assaults.

The government, under the president's direction, began its attack on the beef trust in May, 1902, at the same time that suit for the dissolution of the Northern Securities company was begun. Since that date, Northern Securities has been crushed, timber wolves in the west have been scotched, robber coal barons and public land thieves have felt the weight of the big stick, railroad officials have been fined for rebating, Standard Oil is on the run, but the beef trust with its cunningly devised system is still doing business in the same old way.

As a trust, it has flourished under government prosecution. The only severe blow dealt the combination was landed by the writer of the "Jungle." This expose has caused the sales of canned products and sausage to drop off a million pounds annually. It compelled the congress to pass a stringent inspection act and this legislation has redounded to the public benefit.

The packers now assert that the refusal of the public at home and abroad to buy canned beef is largely responsible for the prevailing high prices of fresh meats. The customers who formerly ate canned beef are now buying fresh meats, and this increased demand, they assert, has elevated the prices.

The average wholesale price of dressed beef, lamb and mutton is 33 per cent higher than in May, 1902, when the government began its attack on the meat combine. The price of livestock at the stockyards is about the same as in May, 1902. The average wholesale prices of meats are 20 per cent higher than in March, 1906, when Judge Humphrey gave the packers their "immunity bath." The retail price is up 30 per cent since that May day in 1902 and 20 per cent since the government defeat in 1906.

The householder all over the United States is paying the full advance. The poor wretch who is compelled to take his sustainance in restaurants and hotels is paying for choice steaks and chops almost 50 per cent more than when the government began its disciplinary campaign.

Here are the figures; the product is figured in pounds:

May, 1902—Cattle, 6½ cents; wholesale price of dressed beef, 8½ cents; mutton, 6 cents; lamb, 8 cents. Retail prices—Porterhouse steaks, 25 cents; sirloin, 18 cents; rib roast, 20 cents; mutton, 16 cents; lamb, 20 cents.

September, 1907—Cattle, 6½ cents; wholesale price of dressed beef, 12½ cents; mutton, 11 cents; lamb, 13 cents. Retail prices—Porterhouse steaks, 28 and 30 cents; sirloin, 20 cents; mutton, 18 cents, and lamb, 22 cents.

The prices given for the dressed beef and the cattle are the aevrage prevailing at the time. The same is true of the retail prices. The wholesale price for the dressed beef further means what the packer receives for the entire carcass, beef, bone, marrow and muscle.

The by-products, such as hide, tallow and intestines, are not included and are asserted by the packers themselves to form one of their greatest sources of profit. The choice cuts bring prices much above the average given. Other portions sell for 3 and 5 cents a pound.

The prosecution of the government has accomplished nothing but the introduction of federal inspection. The methods and policy of the trust had in nowise been altered.

In fact, since the government began its attack, independent competition has been struck down whenever it showed signs of virility.

WOUNDS WOMAN; KILLS SELF

Mrs. Sutherland's Refusal to Wed Joseph Crews Caused Act.

Glasgow, Mo., Sept. 30.—Joseph Crews, a farmer, shot and mortally wounded Mrs. Sallie Sutherland and then killed himself.

Crews is a widower with five children and Mrs. Sutherland a widow with one child. Crews had been paying attention to Mrs. Sutherland for two or three years, and it is supposed that her refusal to marry him precipitated the tragedy. The two were going home from church, riding on horseback.

An Important Distinction.

"Do you think America is developing an aristocracy?"

"I strongly suspect it," answered Miss Cayenne. "A great deal of deference is being shown toward people who got their money in trade instead of getting it by graft."—Washington Star.

HIS VOICE

"You Can Be Trusted."

In the cellar stood Bertha, cream pitcher in hand. In quest of cream for breakfast, she had stopped, transfixed by the appalling sounds which pierced through the cellar walls.

For reasons which doubtless could be scientifically explained, the song emanating from a young man in the front room of the house next door, while it could be heard in all parts of Bertha's home, burst forth in illest volume through the stone foundations in a way both sepulchral and comic. Bertha did not know whether to be affected to tears or laughter, but as she had been on the verge of collapse for weeks, the tears prevailed and she leaned against the cold stone wall to weep.

When she returned to the breakfast room, where the family was assembled, her father could be heard grumblingly: "Tom Goodloe is in pretty business disturbing the peace of the neighborhood this way every morning. He deserves to be muzzled."

Tom had told Bertha often that he could not afford to marry on his present salary, yet now he was rushing headlong toward matrimony with the music teacher, regardless of consequence. Bertha was so nervous that she took frequent walks in the park to ease her feelings.

She was sitting on a bench one day when she was accosted by the music teacher with a demand for a few minutes' conversation.

"Tom Goodloe," began the music teacher, "used to be fond of you and now I want you to coax him back. He has proposed to me and will not be refused, he says, unless I confess that I love another. Well, I do; but to confess it to Tom is impossible, because to have the engagement known now might injure the prospects of my intended husband, who is studying for the operatic stage. He writes the most pathetic letters, begging me to take pity on his lonliness and marry him. But we must wait until he has proved himself a success, as I shall convince him when he comes here next week for his vacation. When he arrives, I shall have my hands full without Tom to complicate the situation."

Bertha's eyes flashed. "And you made Tom a neighborhood jest for the sake of the few dollars you received for his instruction!" she cried.

"A poor music teacher must hold her pupils as best she can," returned her former rival coolly. "I have no father and brother to support me as you have. If I have not taught Tom to sing I've made him a more tractable man than he was when puffed up by your adoration."

Bertha rose, disdaining a reply, but she heard the music teacher say: "My secret is safe with you, I am sure. Now that you know I will not have Tom Goodloe you can be trusted to do the rest."

While Bertha was forgiving Tom for his period of hallucination he was, as the music teacher had predicted, very tractable, so Bertha worked out an idea which had occurred to her in one of the dark hours which she disliked to recall. She induced Tom to try comic songs, and his imitable accent and poses soon gained him a reputation.

One morning at the railroad office where he was employed he was amusing his fellow clerks with a funny song. The applause was at its height when the general manager walked in and Tom and the tumult suddenly ceased.

In the afternoon a letter lay on Tom's desk, which had an ominous look. The young man opened it nervously, fearing to find himself discharged. But the letter proved to be an invitation to favor the general manager and a party of friends with songs at a dinner that evening.

The day after the dinner Tom said to Bertha: "I am now in a position to marry whenever you set the day. They have made me a sort of soliciting freight agent. It will be my work to get hold of big shippers who are in town and give them a good time, securing business for our road incidentally. The boys call it being transferred from the labor squad to the force of entertainers. The general manager says I have strong social qualifications."

"Meaning your voice," said Bertha, happily.

"Exactly. He thinks my comic songs are good for business."

Newlands' Eloquence.

Senator Newlands of Nevada was soaring in debate one day, soaring so high he hit the ceiling. He realized he was getting a trifle flowery and, to excuse himself, said: "Indeed, Mr. President, perfervid oratory may be pardoned, for this subject furnishes all the food eloquence needs." That sounded pretty good to Newlands, but he was a bit abashed when he read in the Congressional Record next day that he asserted his topic "furnished all the food elephants need."—Chicago Chronicle.

MAN'S FINE IS $50 AN HOUR

Contempt of Court Is Charge Against Missouri ndividual.

Aurora, Mo., Sept. 30.—Judge John T. Moore, of the Thirty-first judicial district, in a recent session of the circuit court of Douglas county at Ava, broke all records in the matter of a fine for contempt of court.

A man summoned before the grand jury to give evidence concerning the alleged selling of liquor in a local option section baffled the jury in its attempts to secure certain facts. The jurymen appealed to the judge for relief.

When told by the judge that for every hour he refused to answer the question he would be fined $50 and ten days in jail, he was not affected, but stood pat for two and a half days. At last, finding that his predicament was rapidly growing worse and that liberty was fast fading away, he "fessed up."

CAUGHT THE RATTLER

Though He Was Bitten Twice Before Reptile Was Conquered.

Nashville, Ind., Sept. 30.—Frank Samuels, aged 62, while trying to capture a large rattlesnake, was bitten twice on the hand. He succeeded in capturing the snake, however, by putting a forked stick over its head.

After capturing the snake he attempted to cut the flesh from around the wound on his hand with a dull pocket knife. His hand and arm are now in such a condition that blood poison is feared.

A few days prior to this Samuels noticed a large rattler in the roadway, and, creeping upon it, succeeded in capturing it with his hands, without injury. Samuels says he understood that a local physician was offering a reward of $25 for a live rattler, hence his action in going after the reptiles.

REGARDING RAILROADS

EIGHT PERSONS WERE KILLED AND TWENTY INJURED IN COLLISION.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

Eight men were killed and a score injured, several fatally, at Bellaire, Ohio, Saturday afternoon, when the Chicago and Wheeling express on the Baltimore and Ohio railway crashed into a freight train which was moving slowly on a siding.

This was due, it is said, to the failure of the operator to throw a switch. The west bound freight had received orders to meet the passenger at the western limits of the Bellaire yard, and was moving slowly along the siding.

Where the wreck occurred there is a sharp curve which prevents the engineers of east bound trains from seeing more than a few feet ahead. The passenger train swung around the curve rapidly, being three hours late, and should have gone on in safety on the main line. The switch to the siding had not been turned, and the train shot into the freight.

The worst damage was done to the smoker, which was telescoped by the baggage car. Every occupant of the smoker, which was telescoped by the passengers in the day coach and two Pullman were tumbled from their seats but not seriously hurt. Engineer Galbraith was parboiled by escaping steam.

Among the passengers were Richard Carle's "Spring Chicken" comic opera company, which was to have played at Wheeling that night. All the members of the company escaped serious injury, except Alfred Dalby, the musical director. It was found necessary to amputate his right arm.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 30.—A report was made to the United States consul, Mr. Smith in Vancouver, by Capt. Munro, of the schooner Casec, of the looting of an Alaskan village on Litak bay by the crew of a Japanese schooner operating in Behring sea.

The Casec called at Litak bay for water and the Russian priests asked Capt. Munro to inform the United States authorities of the outrage.

The Japanese landed from the schooner and broke open the houses and looted right and left.

Another report was received that the Japanese sealers had landed on Shelikoff island and killed cattle on the ranges there.

GOLF RECORD BROKEN

Mr. W. H. Reynolds Sets the Pace for Local Players.

Mr. W. H. Reynolds, who is one of the best golfers of the Country club, has just turned in a card showing the smashing of two records. In an eighteen hole match, played with W. J. Maltby and Newton Cannon, Mr. Reynolds negotiated the nine holes in 38, two strokes under bogey, and two strokes under the best score heretofore made by any player over the links.

For the eighteen holes he made an 83. The record for the eighteen holes has been 90. Thus, by making 83, seven strokes were cut off the best score heretofore made by any player over the Country club links.

A WAVE OF CRIME

Chicago Stirred Over the Record of Sunday.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Chicago appeared yesterday to have been seized by a veritable wave of crime. There were two baffling murder mysteries, one murder and suicide and one killing in which the murderer fled and left his victim to die, and in addition there was another attack upon a white girl by a negro, the victim being only 6 years old.

As a result of the unparalleled criminal activity, the police in every station have been given instructions to be more than usually vigilant.

TWO RIDES FOR A NICKEL

Traction Company Will Comply With the State Board's Order.

The significant feature in connection with the railway commission's findings is that it places a valuation on the plant of the traction company and the Citizens' railway company, and limits their earnings accordingly.
